Thread: New here, are there any real methods to making money?

Hey, although I snoop around the forum to read interesting shit, I never can really get myself to buy into these "automated," "make money by yourself schemes." I'm wondering, what are your experiences (if any) with these somewhat convincing posts you can find on here.

short answer no long answer no
most are scams or are pyramid scams and dont buy either most work but either require 100 dollars to get started

Not true. If you're not a complete idiot, and actually follow the methods then you'll make something. There is no such thing as "autopilot" per say, you'll have to put in a little work to make any profit. But yes, some methods do work. Although when you purchase a method, you'll slap yourself for not thinking about it before.
