I received Vouch copy from OP, sms sent and delivered successfully.
I will make my order soonest.

01001 - July 24, 2020, 3:24 pm

I recently got a vouch copy from BrokenSol and I tried the service, and it's smooth and quick. I tried this on two numbers, and the SMS was delivered in no time; however, the only issue I encountered was spoofing since my country isn't supported. Yet, the SMS got delivered in a manner that is generally sent by PayPal or any other auto-responders (OTP, Transaction details, etc.), which seems legit.

This implies, if your country is supported, and allows Spoofing, then you can send it from anyone's name.

Thanks once again for choosing me to review your service. It's really worth it to prank your friends for fun!

SkunT3llo - July 24, 2020, 4:39 pm

OMFG this shit is working like a charm!!! I can't believe!

But if You can increase character limit in "From" and "Message" (unicode) field that would be great!

(Aug 15, 2020 07:56 PM)hackatton Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) can we receive sms too? Sadly it's not possible to receive SMS with a spoofed sender ID. Only way would be, if we were to use virtual numbers. Though in that case you'd have to buy a virtual number and you'd only be able to use the number as your sender ID to receive responses. I am thinking about offering this kind of services in the future as well, but currently it's not possible at all on our site.

with spoofing, if i know someones local mobile number, can i spoof it and send a sms to someone else from that mobile number so the other person would think that its a real sms from that person?

It depends, the targeted person will always receive the sender ID you have chosen, so if the person has the number saved under "Tony" for example, they will receive the number and not "Tony". You would have a easier Time, if you'd find out what the targeted person saved the number in (Tony) and spoofed the name instead. If you like, we can do a test run, so you can make sure everything works well for you!

Not quite, it's a bit more complicated.

While Telenor supports alphanumeric sender IDs, Warid Telecommunication, ZONG and Ufone support Numeric ones.

If you would like to send messages with the sender ID "5510" or "1100" numbers from Warid Telecommunication, ZONG and Ufone, they will in fact reach the target.

In case you are still not quite sure, I'd be happy to provide some test credits so you can make sure everything works well!

Big vouch for this guy. He was very approachable and answered all my queries. Even gave me credits to test our his service. Although, it didn't work for my specific purpose, everything went well talking to him and providing me support even though I'm not yet a paying customer. Shout out to guys who actually care for their customers.

Unfortunately no. The US put out some new restrictions a while ago, so we've been unable to support them ever since. This might change in the future though!

Restrictions? so is this method still working in the us and you just are not able to do it because of this restriction?

No, due to the newest restrictions, we no longer support the USA. As far as I know there is no way around those.

Hey there,
No, I don't think that was ever possible.

Sender IDs are different from actual numbers, if you have a contact saved in your phone as say Tom, there is a number in the contacts list behind that name, so it would never come up in the same conversation, since the originating address, which would be just a Sender ID, is simply different from what the system accepts.

Thought you are able to fully spoof a number when making a spoof call, but that again is different as a call always uses an actual number.

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.
