Thread: Are you guys interested in physical products?

More specifically for gifting a girlfriend, friend, bestfriend, parents, or any love ones?

I have an offline business that sells Spotify plaques that is a very nice gift for someone you love. I'm saving up for my tuition in college with the money i'll be earning with it.

Just wondering if you guys will be interested in one of those.

PS. The language/song is local if you're wondering

Is it a plaque with the album cover printed on it, or is it interactive, like you can click on it and it will play the song or something. Personally, I would not buy something like this, but I am sure artists, producers, or people that work in the music industry probably would be interested.

It's a plaque with the album cover with it. YOu cannot click it to play but it has the spotify code. Most of my customers make the "album" cover with their own photo to gift it to their partner

The product looks nice, but I am not sure what use I would have for it as I am not producing music myself.

It's not really for self but rather as a gift. Anniversary gift with the song that they are fond of.

Looks like a nice item for music lovers, I'm pretty sure if you can market this well you'll get some good sales
