Black Trump supporter Bernell Trammell was gunned down in Milwaukee shortly after an alleged dispute over his Trump signs. Why doesn't his black life matter to "Black Lives Matter" agitators?

Marxist Black Lives Matter activists are curiously silent after black Trump supporter Bernell Trammell was murdered in Milwaukee hours after he reportedly gave an interview explaining why he supports President Trump.

Police are investigating the possibility of a political motive for Trammell's tragic killing, NewsTalk1130 reported.

"Trammell, 60, was gunned down on July 23 near the very spot where he gave a video interview a few hours before explaining why he supported Trump," according to the Daily Callout. "The motive is not clear, including whether the slaying was tied into Trammell's political beliefs or Trump support."

Trammell was a Rastafarian street preacher who advocated for President Trump's reelection both in front of Milwaukee's City Hall and in his black-majority neighborhood.

Police say Trammell was shot to death at around 12:30 p.m. in front of his business, Expression Publications.

Trammell's storefront is plastered with "Trump 2020" signs.

Reggie Moore, the director of the Milwaukee Office of Violence Prevention, told the Milwaukee Journal-Sentinel that he had "intervened in a dispute between Trammell and a young man" that was "related to a Trump sign that Trammell was carrying."

Trammell was well-known in his neighborhood for his pro-Trump advocacy and his religious preaching.

Neighbors fondly remembered Bernell as a friendly, peace-loving man. "The guy was just full of love,” local resident Dick Nelson told Fox 6.

Adebisi Agoro said whether you agreed with Trammell’s political views or not, people respected him because he had conviction — unlike countless political phonies who chant hollow mantras but don’t understand what they’re advocating.

“He was just a community figure,” Agoro said. “I respected him because he had a position. He’s got his opinion on why he feels that way, and I’m not going to knock him.”

Senator Ron Johnson (R-Wisconsin) tweeted: “Bernell Trammell was known to many in Milwaukee. My condolences to his family and friends.”

Naturally, the Marxist Black Lives Matter movement said nothing about this black life that was lost to street violence.

Why? Because Trammell wasn’t murdered by a white cop.

Twitter slammed Black Lives Matter agitators for ignoring Trammell’s murder.

One person tweeted: “Where is Black Lives Matter outrage at the death of Bernell Trammell?”

A Milwaukee resident lamented: “Bernell Trammell was shot in the head, execution-style, in broad daylight yesterday in front of his store. He was a God-fearing Trump-supporting man. Was it because he was a Trump supporter? He didn’t look for fights, he lived a good life. Sick and sad!”

Another Twitter user joked that Joe Biden probably thinks that Trammell “ain’t black” because he didn’t support a Democrat.

While it’s unclear if Trammell’s murder was due to his Trump advocacy, many black Trump supporters say they’re constantly bullied and threatened because they abandoned the Democratic Plantation.

Last month, a black Trump supporter was bombarded with racist slurs by a black leftist outside President Trump’s Tulsa rally.

The leftist slammed the black Trump supporter as a “house ner” and a “fgot.”

The Trump supporter replied: “I’m too educated to be a house n*er. I’ve never been on a plantation, brother. Have you?”

The black leftist then told the Trump supporter to shut up and called him a “f*ggot” before driving off.

This is today’s violent, racist left.

According to Joe Biden, he "ain't black" so I'm not sure how this one will be spun.

Tragic nonetheless the western world has lost its mind and is gone to hell.

The fact that this isn't in the news everywhere shows how messed up the world is today.

Prepper - July 26, 2020, 2:34 pm

The real question is is the suspect black.

Now you see if it is a black on black crime it doesn't matter BLM will not protest it. But if it is a white person who shot him well as webdev77 said he ain't black since he supports Trump according to Joe Biden so well it doesn't count with him.

60 years old and he is gunned down for his beliefs. I really hope they find the murdering piece of shit who did this and lock him up for life.

Damn that's dumb as hell. Crime over who supports who shouldn't even be a thing anymore, it's getting pretty ridiculous. At the end of the day, it's about what president THEY like, assaulting others over that is a violation of basic human rights.

You need to start realizing that it's just the left that are batshit crazy.

The left are literally rioting in multiple cities over police officers that were already charged with murder. They're just destroying shit for fun at this point. Not to mention they're blinding officers by shining high powered lasers in their eyes. 3 are permanently blind already.

The media portrays the left as angels but trust me, they're just giant sacks of shit. Their mindset is "if I can't have it, neither can anyone else" (hence why they shit on the rich so much.)

I posted the story of cops being blinded by lasers. It's fucking ridiculous. I literally saw far leftists on social media defending the violence against police.

Trump didn't bring out the hate, vitriol and violence of the far left.. He exposed it.

Hang on how is this news now? This happened in July 2020? Damn! I don't even post 2021 news in this section. Mind you now that I look into this more I guess this is still an unsolved case?

Of course his life matters. His life matters but the Black Lives Matter movement is specifically about police brutality leading to the deaths of black people, it's not about anything else and pretending it should be about a bunch of other things, and asking why it's not about other things, is just pointless strawmanning.

I will agree, now that I've looked into it though that maybe because of that photo of him with so many Trump signs, the story wasn't picked up by so many places. The Guardian did an article on it though.

I have to say he was killed at the height of the BLM protests in 2020, so if some idiot killed him in connection with that plus his liking Trump that's ironic because Trammell actually supported the BLM movement and made his handcrafted signs to support them as well as Trump!

This is the latest I can find about him. Members of the public have found photos of a white man they have identified that match photos police released of a suspect that we never heard about again other than from members of the public

Fuck off. Police are far too soft with black men. Black men disproportionately KILL police officers.

If anything, given the break down with the rule of law in the inner cities, where the black communities are, we need the fucking military to go in there to restore order. Police clearly aren't up to the task anymore after being demoralized by that bullshit fucking far left movement.

I'll tell you what, Lindros, I'm just stating what the concept of the movement is. Since I haven't lived there since I was 8, I'm not pretending I REALLY know what the fuck is going on in the USA outside of what I read online now.

But I'm saying the kind of arguments that you proposed in this thread, and the kind of statements people like to make about BLM don't work for me. because they're just strawmen, why aren't black people protesting about the plight of the Uyghurs. Why doesn't the World Wildlife Fund care about the bombings in Istanbul? Charities have stated aims and they're focused on those stated aims. And "police brutality against black people" is BLM stated aim not any other.

Gangs in inner cities everywhere in the world get wealthy from all their illegal activities and then they can get a pass with their wealth. The amount of crime following the pandemic has become worse. Lockdowns may have protected hospitals but they damaged communities a lot I guess.

Yeah I realize, it's just a tired argument and BLM's talking points are false, based on lies and obfuscation of the truth.

The gangs of the inner city today aren't the Mafia. There is no rhyme or reason to most of it. Large amounts of money isn't even made by a lot of these smaller bands of gangs in Chicago and Detroit. They kill each other over music, small amounts of pocket change, for revenge and often times it's innocent people getting caught in the crossfire.

White & Asians & even Jews are targeted in these cities, purely out of ethnic hate, to rob or to car jack. Black youngsters will play the knock out game by sucker punching unsuspecting, retard, egalitarian liberals, who have lied to themselves about the reality on the ground in these cities.

Police are handicapped by far left district attorney's, generally bought into office by the likes of George Soros, who let far left rioters off Scott free after damaging property, vandalizing, etc. They let violent criminals out of jail repeatedly, even after violent crimes, purely because of the notion that policing, law enforcement or accountability of any kind regarding the law is "racist".

Big box retailers are losing HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS of dollars to organized, mass retail theft/shop lifting, which in some cases has been made a petty misdemeanor and isn't even enforced. Have you seen the videos?

These cities have become hellscape for all of the residents who live in them, including the law abiding black citizens. It resembles South Africa post apartheid in many of these places now.

Yeah, the police are scared of getting charged for doing their fucking jobs.

That's what happens when you demoralize the police. Honestly fuck those neighborhoods, if they don't want to be policed, fuck em. Not my problem, I'll stay far away from them.

"Hogging police resources". You mean the people who fucking pay the bills for the city, including the bills caused by fucking shit neighborhoods and welfare that continue the existence of the shit neighborhoods?

Those neighborhoods don't deserve any resources because they contribute nothing of in return. They only take from society as a whole.

How about this, we give them their own sections of the cities, give them complete autonomy and put up borders and keep it from overflowing into other parts of the country?

For the most part I agree with you there. They are complicit in all of the corruption that goes on to a degree, including the forcible ethnic replacement of the majority population, as well as voter fraud, turning a blind eye to the politicians and the media.

So yeah, honestly fuck the cops. However, it doesn't make blacks somehow justified in looting stores and murdering people.

There are a lot of apologists for the criminals. Quite frankly, I think the police SHOULD stay out of the areas and their only job should be to keep that shit overflowing elsewhere.

Huh? You want Americans who don't vote how you do- to not be protected from crime?

No one was apologising for criminals. Three percent of BLM protests turned into riots and random people took advantage of unrest and looted. That isn't the fault of every single person who decided to protest against police brutality. And 97% were peaceful. But 3% IS a lot and people did get harmed in those, yes. Everyone gets too emotional on the issue on both sides and talks crap. So many strawman arguments get leveled at the movement. And then people come up with "oh but police kill mentally ill white people too." Lol well that doesn't make it better and start a separate movement for that. Using it to slap down BLM is another bad faith argument.

I don't have any dog in the fight of the BLM arguments. I just see a lot of emotional arguments around the issue that aren't logical. And everything around Kyle Rittenhouse being a MAJOR example. YES, he was innocent. Yes, he killed in self defense. No the people he killed were not an example of BLM protestors acting like animals. Ironically only one of the three people he shot was even a BLM protestor! The first was a suicidal pedophile trying to grab KR's gun so he could kill himself but Kyle didn't know why someone was trying to grab his gun off him.

That first guy he killed was videoed shouting the N word trying to get himself killed at the BLM because he was that suicidal and had tried to kill himself three times that week. Yeah Lindros he happened to be a Jew. ? The other two thought they were taking down a mass shooter, so Kyle had to kill them in self defense because they had the noble reason of trying to stop a killer. One was a BLM protestor with a criminal record OK. The other was actually same side as Kyle a guy there to provide medical aid and try to help keep the protest from getting out of hand same as Kyle was there to provide medical aid and protect a car dealership from vandals. Seems like the majority of people want to ignore all these facts to push their agenda on Kyle Rittenhouse one way or another Most of the facts of the KR case aren't particularly favourable to any of the standard agendas.

Like when does the Police officer become scum, is it during high school? After high school? After they commit their first hate crime? What exactly makes a single individual 'scum'. I hear that police are scum in my country too but thats from people who abuse drugs, drink in public, try to be deliberately beligerent, attack people, scream shit at people walking by. What would make a police person taking the drugs off those people scum and not the other way around.

So when the police officer pulled me out of the car wreck I should've spat in his face and called him scum or what? Just trying to understand when that person stops becoming a human being, and also kinda curious why you yourself are morally superior and so far above the person who helped me. Because so far I have you on one hand shitting on people saying they are scum and worthless and on the other hand I have the person who helped me and protected me. So far I'd take his side for sure. Not once have I had a bad interaction with police, even when they were taking drugs off me. And I have had the police take drugs off me multiple times and I still don't have a criminal record because they could see I was in a bad place and didn't want to ruin my life. Why are my experiences so drastically different from yours? Maybe its the person you are and the energy you give off. Shit vibes fr.

I don't do any of those things I've approached police as a victim and unfortunately I have to say they acted like scum. I guess they have a quota or whatever, but they are too lazy to look into the crimes, so they try to see if there's anyway they can possibly turn the thing around, and find some crime the victim is guilty of, even when the victim has zero convictions, arrests anything, doesn't do drugs or drink nothing they're still more interested in trying that, than in helping victims of crimes. However I don't think all police are scum. I think a large percentage like maybe 40 or 50% I eventually found decent cops willing to help out and protect me from crimes, but I had to go -good cop hunting- to find them when the first ones I approached, laughed in my face, refused to help, and tried to see if there was anything they could get ME on (they failed) in more than one occasion when I went to them for help with different crimes.

Literally anytime you or anyone else generalises a group of people I immediately disregard everything you have to say. Because the matter of the fact is no two people are the same. And theres no way in hell you we're immediately made into a perp if you were a victim in a case. Unless you're doing something bad or its messy. The idea that every single police officer is out to get you is just so absolutely braindead, implying theres some crazy alien mind control parasite that affects you as soon as you put on a badge. And I explained that no one made me into a perp they just looked at different ways that I possibly could be through informal interrogation oif a victim and failed to find anything that fit. The fact that you had a knee jerk angry reaction based on something in your head that didn't have to do with the post you were reading is what is really ridiculous and braindead here. Try reading the full post again. I did NOT generalise the whole group in that post at all. Far from it if you actually read the full post.

Seems you worship cops or something and flipped out at the beginning of the post the minute a negative word was said. I've never been in any trouble with the law ever. But I have had a nasty spiteful cop try to turn a situation around on me and fail.

Reading a sentence where I mentioned that I had one encounter where one acted like scum and then not reading the next few sentences where I talked about the good cops I'd dealt with shows how foolish your process when reading and responding was.

Just trying to understand when that person stops becoming a human being, and also kinda curious why you yourself are morally superior and so far above the person who helped me. Because so far I have you on one hand shitting on people saying they are scum and worthless and on the other hand I have the person who helped me and protected me. So far I'd take his side for sure. Not once have I had a bad interaction with police, even when they were taking drugs off me. And I have had the police take drugs off me multiple times and I still don't have a criminal record because they could see I was in a bad place and didn't want to ruin my life. Why are my experiences so drastically different from yours? Maybe its the person you are and the energy you give off. Shit vibes fr.

I personally dont spit on people, just because I don't like them, but if that's how you get alone in life go for it I guess.

I'm not claiming to be morally superior in also not claiming to serve and protect.
