Thread: BitRat is Good or as usual Copy Paste?

M100 - July 26, 2020, 4:32 pm

HI GUYZ, WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT BIT RAT (Paid version with some customization), THX FOR UR OPINION!

M100 - July 26, 2020, 8:19 pm

(Jul 26, 2020 06:01 PM)Snyke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) BitRAT is not a copy/paste. The owner actively takes initiative and takes users suggestions into account in a very timely manner.

It's gaining a whack ton of popularity really quickly and, in my opinion, is relatively unique as far as Remote Administration Trojans are concerned co-coinciding with the TOR node network.

It's a very clean GUI from what I've seen and I'm looking forward to further released from UnknownProducts Thank you for your review.

i'm User of both Hive and BitRAT So if Comparison Hive is a Garbage Don't even think to Buy Doesn't Matter what people say But i assure You You will regret V Bad Experience in terms of Stability , Password recovery , HVNC , Silent browser etc etc Now on Other Side BitRAT is a Master Piece i have Never saw such a Fantastic RAT Working Great with Stability , Password Recovery with alot of Recovery Options browsers etc remote browser working Extremely Fast BitRAT have alot of options you want in a Perfect RAT you name it.

So the conclusion is about BitRAT if you Planing to Buy Just Go For it and You'll Love That. Cheers!

The rat is really good, but as always after what Semmenial said and common knowledge, I would use some servers instead of hosting on your home. If you are needing some help, feel free to check me out: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=6097699>

For sure, it's absolutely essential that you understand your risks and have methods to minimize your risk. Using servers and connecting to them with VPNs is a great way to anonymize your self when working with Remote Administration Tools.

Vagabundo Legendario - July 29, 2020, 7:29 am

Tested bitrat when released and basically its the n1 right now

SIM-4100260 - August 1, 2020, 11:11 am

BitRat seems so good, that it will most likely get FbiEd really soon, because it's growing so fast. I wouldn't buy. Just use a free rat.

Dont talk trash if you dont know how it working. FBI can never enter Russia and I never leave Russia. Simple.

In terms of GUI every tool looks the same. You have to see the source code to understand whether or not it's a clone. Unless it's pasted 1:1. You can tell based on their account.

You dont need to see source code really. You can compare also features. BitRAT has features no other rat has. Has inbuilt payment system (own BTC node) and licensing system over Tor. For C++ client you can check import table. BitRAT using and depending heavy on libraries like Boost. Which other open source RAT even use Boost?

Which other open source RAT even use Boost? I cannot really tell, I am not in the scene for the past few years. Although my comment is nowhere near trash talking. But yeah the general comparison could be done based on the GUI, but then again they all seem the same. If your tool has some unique features then that's nothing but good. In the end what matters is you providing the safety for your customers

Sorry, i didn't know that. NOW, that is smart :)

PS. What happens if it's used in Russia? Or are you not selling it there?

It means Russia Allows this and the FBI Can't arrest him like they did with the person who stopped wannacry and authors and Users of black shades RAT. In Mother Russia Cyber Crime is Generally allowed (Most is used for Espionage (or stealing documents that are quite sensitive) or robbing the world of money) Russia, China and North Korea Hate the US and Allow Cyber Crime to be quite a large industry.

The FBI can't Request data from Russia as they Won't give to the FBI, So it means he's safe

Please don't. Let us learn our own lesson from our mistake and success.

Don't stop us and don't discourage us. If you still want to help him then please convo/PM him not in my thread please.

I think UnknownProducts knows what he's doing.

i heard is good, i didn't test it.

Buzinezz - August 2, 2020, 5:12 pm

Bought bitrat some hours ago and it is without any doubt far superior to any other RAT i have ever seen or used and I have used almost all paid RATs.

i use bit rat for my 2 servers and planing to go for 3 further , the things i disappointed in are lack of the multi user licences, and some crashes on bulk download but author already give me a recommendation on how to fix so i cant point it as a complaint

fatal69 - August 3, 2020, 5:06 pm

it's my favourite rat purely for the amount of features it has and how very stable it is. The TOR idea is great but it is a shame that the file size has to be relatively big. That doesn't matter too much now as we live in 2020 and it's only 5mb-ish.

I would like to see HVNC. Maybe it will come in an update in the future.

hVNC is there. Open client dashboard > Misc > Hidden Desktop/hVNC

It is sold as separate module.
