Thread: Notification on pop change

I'd like to suggest a small change. Currently when someone updates a popularity rating on you, you have to manually check it.

I just think it'd be a good idea to be notified who changed their pop rating. I see my pop points moving a lot without getting any new ones. I know popularity isn't all that important, but still. :)

But you don't get a notification if they subsequent change that rating.

Ah... I guess..

Imagine making a script to add and remove popularity every second lol
Another abuse to enforce.

Well you can only give 25 pops per day. So if updating a pop counts as giving one, which it should (or could) then that wouldn't be a problem.

Another abuse to enforce. Vendors can already delete and re-pop--Which yields a new notification.
Potential abuse is almost never a legitimate argument to make.

I second this suggestion.
