It's a really nice show. Each episode is its own thought provoking story. It's animated really well, and not a lot of people know about. I think I resonate with it a bit more because I have been traveling for the last few years. I really suggest that you try it, and let me know what you think if you decide to watch it. I'd like to talk about it with someone else... ?

Remember watching it when it came out, was fun to see a little depth into each separate world and the troubles/joys they face/have. Reminded me of D&D where you go to a village, learn some stuff, solve some problems, then bounce to the next, except with a talking motorbike.

Never heard of this anime, thanks for bringing it to my attention. Seems to have pretty good reviews also

It's really nice. The original series is the best, they made a reboot of it but it didn't get traction.

Reboot is nice, it is nice, it's just that the original is best. I hate the motorcycle in the new one. Fucking todd howard.

I just finished the last episode and I have to agree the first anime was much better.
