Thread: Chicago Riots/Looting

Prepper - August 10, 2020, 1:04 pm

In Chicago a riot and looting outbreak has happened leaving 13 police officers injured, Widespread damage is reported, businesses and property of innocent people destroyed. 100 people have been arrested but they will probably just get a slap on the wrist.

Seriously the looting and rioting has gone too far, I am all for peaceful protests, but these measures people are taking make it seem as if they are just opportunists and do not care about what people care for during these times.

This seems to happen during election years all of the time BLM and Antifa get together and destroy stuff. It is not about peace anymore, it is not about George anymore and if you actually look at the autopsy and the recently released footage you will see that it no where near warrants riots or looting.

George Floyd was just the excuse to start all of this, it sure as hell makes me wonder why did they wait so long to release the footage, it is like it was done intentionally to incite these riots.

You want to peaceful protest then go for it, but as soon as you start rioting, looting, burning down homes and property of innocent people, killing innocent people, attacking innocent people, and burning down homes with children in it and preventing the fire department from responding then you become a terrorist. And this is exactly what has happened with BLM/Antifa they have become terrorists.

Maybe if CPD follow their own rules the looting will stop

Oh really, did you bother watching the leaked footage. George Floyd was not murdered, he had drugs in his system which can induce cardiac arrest, he had heart disease, he had hypertension and he died from cardiac arrest not from the knee on his neck.

He was resisting arrest and said he couldn't breathe before he was even on the ground, he got put on the ground for resisting.

You want to see a tragedy look at Breonna Taylor. George Floyd's case does not warrant rioting/looting.

Oh and before you go and say George Floyd has nothing to do with Chicago, of course it does, these riots/looting didn't start across the country until the George Floyd situation.

Very unfortunate these people don't see the damage done to everybody including themselves. The U.S. government will probably implement a solution that restricts our freedom even more. Holland; my dream place, here I come.

Oh so the rioting has been going on non stop for 28+ years? those are different riots lol, what is happening today has been sparked from the George Floyd incident.

Let me make it simple. None of this would be happening across the country if it were not for George Floyd's footage being withheld. Because they withheld this footage of George resisting it now made people think hey its ok I can riot and loot over every little thing now.

You are speaking nonsense buddy if you really think none of this is related to George Floyd. These people would not be there rioting/looting if the previous incident did not plant it in there brains that it is ok to riot/loot.

I am really surprised you cannot see the connections and the bigger picture here it is really obvious it is not even a conspiracy it is a fact due to how obvious it is.

Just watch any little incident even if it is justified there will be more rioting/looting, then maybe you will start seeing it. But I also suggest you actually look into what really happened with George and what it was really used for politically until you actually see that you won't understand why I say it is connected.

Until then you and I can agree to disagree. PM me if you want to understand why I say this if you cannot figure it out on your own.

Floyd woke up the people and this recent incident calls for riots and looting that's just the way it is

Well at least you see "Floyd" woke up the people that means you understand that is what made people think it is ok so you are getting closer to seeing why I say it is connected.

And can you explain how in your view this recent incident calls for riots/looting the man in question in Chicago shot at police and the police returned fire.

You shoot at me I will shoot at you plain and simple it is self defense. Are the police supposed to just allow suspects to run away and not pursue them?

CPD are policing without body cams and shoppers are shopping without paying

Seems fine to me

The police not having body cams is bad, it should be 100% required for police to wear body cams while on duty. But just because they weren't wearing body cams does not make the shooting unjustified.

A gun was found, they have security camera footage of the chase happening so far the evidence is not looking good for the man.

From now on, every action of a bad cop?

We label as "police terrorism"

Let's get rid of this terrorist organization... the good work of the many is being flushed by the bad cops.

WAIT... you say it's not all cops?

You say some cops are good and we should not judge all of them based on the few???

Well then why don't you treat BLM the same way?

You know what? the police officers who killed innocent people, brutalized innocent people, threatened innocent people guess what? they are terrorists :)

If you want to label every action of a bad cop police terrorism go for it. By the way I am all for police reform.

Well I guess the other day when they brought a uhaul in a coordinated effort and smashed through a old navy store with a car just to steal shit is peaceful. Amongst various other stores. Literally pulled up a uhaul to load it up lol. Chicago has always been a train wreck as it is.

Pretty much. Until more police get hired it'll remain like this.

You would think libratards would understand that:

No but Floyd made them a common theme, Democrats love their criminals, Floyd was a piece of shit, did time for doing a home invasion on a pregnant woman with 5 other dudes, multiple charges for selling drugs, he swallowed his stash I bet and that's why he OD.
