Acrid - August 14, 2020, 5:12 pm

My virginity.

Lol, but for real, back when I was like 11 I lost my Gameboy Color, it sucked. Also lost my brand new iphone at a concert once, well stolen technically, since the person who found it decided to keep it and texted me "sucks to suck"... I think we bricked it through our carrier, so now he gets nothing and so do i :(

At least ive been super careful about my things since then its illegal accounts people use it for bragging in chat such asFox u can create F_o_x but u can not create underscore in the first of the account or the end of it and also more than score like F__o__x u can't create it but these type of account was able to be created from 1997 to 1999 and back in this time the people was using easy passwords like one word or and passwords easy to guess it so i was using crack the accounts and sell it was big money

I've lost plenty of precious things in my life such as friends and family members. My grandfather pretty much raised me and when he passed he gave me a ring that I lost in a drunken blackout and I've never forgiven myself for it.

Looking back, I dont think Ive lost anything or anyone. Lots of people have lost me though. My policy is: if someones a shitty person to me, they dont exist for me anymore. I probably wouldnt even blink if I saw them on the verge of death and I make this clear to anyone who knows me in real life.
