No, I meant, you'd get 1k bytes from those 1k bytes card or you'd have to pay real money and then you'd get the 1k bytes?

If you buy a 1k scratchcard, there is a 45% that you get the 1k back, so I suppose he's referring to the 1k bytes one.

No brother the amount of cards I have bought was just 19 I guess but I have 8 cards that have 1k bytes only.

Never win much more than 1k bytes.

to be exact 4.83% in real life.

but on hf the odds are lower because house always win, but it is still a win from the first try :)

Good on you for winning homie!

Blockonome - August 19, 2020, 3:33 pm

Is it possible to win nothing at all on scratchcards or is the minimum win 1000 Bytes?
