Thread: Drop shipping independently VS Drop shipping on Amazon

Would you rather drop ship independently on your own or drop ship on amazon, or drop ship on Amazon using Its FBA service. Please also leave some reasons as to why you chose what you decided to choose

I wouldn't drop ship because of the economy right now you cannot compete with big retailers and amazon.

dropshipping is one of the best opportunities ... doesn't matter which way

Setting up an Amazon shop is good because amazon is already bringing massive traffic ready to buy to its site.

I believe so too. You can be profitable either way as long as you are presistant.

Both works if you have a winning products and you advertise yourself well enough^^

Independent 100%

w Amazon you'll need to order your products in bulk for fulfillment, i usually do this after finding the best ads scale for that store.

I think that drop shipping is very competitive these days on almost all platforms so not worth it tbh

Amazon FBA the way bro, they do the delivery so much traffic on website. Yea they take a fee but if you find the right products with enough profit it's the best way

Bear - September 18, 2020, 5:57 pm

Definitely with FBA, but then its not really drop shipping. You have to source your products from a proper manufacturer and then you know the rest...

I would drop ship on Amazon because they already have a popular platform.

I though so too since Amazon is already very popular. Doing so independently would require more investment.

My thoughts as well. There is really no point coming up with my own platform when Amazon already has the traffic I need.

To just add something to consider, people are saying to pick Amazon because of the traffic it gives you. Remember this means you have to compete on pricing too to get your share of that traffic, as opposed to Shopify in which you don't have to compete for price as long as you make your page look premium.

Id say independent, you can kind of run it how you want, you wont need to compete and if you advertise yourself well enough you should be able to make a nice amount of money. Of course it requires a bit of investment but eventually it will pay off.
