Thread: Favourite sport

siddy357 - August 18, 2020, 3:19 am

Covid has brought the sportsbook award hunters here on HF back to square zero as the sporting world has come to a stand still and has now recently resumed with some restrictions and safety measures.

what is your favourite sport / team and how has covid affected your favourite sport?

Bacardi Cola Lime - August 18, 2020, 3:23 am

My favorite sport to watch is European football. Covid suspended most of the action for 2 months or so. Can't wait for major leagues to start again!

Yeah brother I really miss the world of sports when the pandemic hits the whole world.

Basketball is my favorite sports and until now we can play it outside because we everyone is restricted to play it publicly.

Glad that NBA is now here again and bringing some entertainment again :D

Free Kurdistan - August 18, 2020, 3:28 am

Probably football. Hasn't affected it that much, as they just put a fake crowd on there and some 'fake' noise of the fans.

It wouldn't have become a big game without a bigger fan base.

which team do you support btw?

Well, Bale can earn himself around 60mil$ if he stays in Madrid for the 2 years remaining in his contract, while doing absolutely nothing. I don't think he cares anymore haha.

He then complains that fans boo him after what he has done to the club.

Nima304 - August 18, 2020, 3:37 am

Competitive CS:GO is pretty awesome to watch, I don't really watch conventional sports unless it's a big event (like the Super Bowl, and I then I only show up for the party aspect of it).

He is not wrong to be honest. He was an asset to the club but die hard RM fans are trash. Then the club blocked his transfer to a Chinese team for no reason. I would do the same as Bale lmao.

bluud - August 18, 2020, 3:38 am

I'd say my favorite thing to watch is esports, so it hasn't changed much.

Other than esports, MMA.

Nope I always wanted to watch the GSW but since most of their start players were injured it's pretty hard for them to be on the playoff this year.

I am sure they will coming back stronger next year :D

It is always a risk going in with the underdogs mate as you can make a jackpot when you win else losses down the drain.

Football and wrestling. Both took a big hit due to covid19. Games/matches do take place now but with no audience and that sucks.

M?tt - August 18, 2020, 5:15 am

I enjoy bowling competitively and have been involved in the sport for 15 years. I coach alongside my competitive agenda but have put it in the backseat so I can focus on other more important things right now. Where I'm living right now, it wasn't affected all that much by COVID-19 but I opted to move away from the sport for a while anyway. I'll definitely be making a comeback this September.

My fav is mixed martial arts. It's weird to watch in in this whole situation with covid, without public and fans, noises around the octagon. But I think it's a good thing for competitors since they can focus more on what they are doing
