

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: I want to immigrate to the United States

Perileos - August 20, 2020, 4:41 pm

It's a fucking hassle though. ?

Dopamine - August 20, 2020, 4:43 pm

You should try the Canada before. It's like the States but in better. Jokes for everyone who can't get it

HERMES - August 20, 2020, 4:45 pm

Give us some more information so that we can help ya :)

Perileos - August 20, 2020, 5:09 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 04:45 PM)HERMES Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Give us some more information so that we can help ya :)

What information would be necessary? I would either need a full-time contract and that employer needs to sponsor me. Or I need to find a sponsor.

?Starfire? - August 20, 2020, 5:10 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:09 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What information would be necessary? I would either need a full-time contract and that employer needs to sponsor me. Or I need to find a sponsor.

Where are you from now? that could be a big determining factor, also are you 'skilled' or 'unskilled' in terms of the workforce? If you are from the right country and either have a degree or a trade and speak english it wouldn't as much of a pain as you'd think.

Perileos - August 20, 2020, 5:12 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:10 PM)?Starfire? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Where are you from now? that could be a big determining factor, also are you 'skilled' or 'unskilled' in terms of the workforce? If you are from the right country and either have a degree or a trade and speak english it wouldn't as much of a pain as you'd think.

I'm from The Netherlands, I have a bachelor's degree in Business Administration and currently engaged in learning a trade. I'm fluent in English and speak accent less.

Perileos - August 20, 2020, 5:13 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:12 PM)Doubt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why do you want to move to the US?

I like the people, way of life and overall business and capitalistic/opportunistic methods of approaching things in life.

Vibe - August 20, 2020, 5:15 pm

0/10 very ghetto wouldn't recommend

A + - August 20, 2020, 5:20 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:09 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What information would be necessary? I would either need a full-time contract and that employer needs to sponsor me. Or I need to find a sponsor.

What kind of person needs to sponsor you?

Nima304 - August 20, 2020, 5:20 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:13 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I like the people, way of life and overall business and capitalistic/opportunistic methods of approaching things in life.

I'd recommend you stay in The Netherlands. Most of my friends are thinking of leaving the US because of what's going on here.

Perileos - August 20, 2020, 5:23 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:20 PM)SuitedPear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What kind of person needs to sponsor you?
A financial stable person, who can support me if my income falls under a poverty threshold:
An Affidavit of Support, also called the Form I-864, is a document an individual signs to accept financial responsibility for the applicant who is coming to live in the United States. The person who signs the Affidavit of Support is also called the "sponsor." The petitioner must complete Form I-864; however if the petitioner's income is insufficient, a joint-sponsor may agree to also complete an I-864 on the applicant's behalf.

An Affidavit of Support is legally enforceable. The sponsor's financial responsibility usually lasts until the applicant either becomes a U.S. citizen, or can be credited with 40 qualifying quarters of work (usually 10 years) under the Social Security Act.

(Aug 20, 2020 05:20 PM)Nima304 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'd recommend you stay in The Netherlands. Most of my friends are thinking of leaving the US because of what's going on here.

No thank you. I never liked the Dutch language, people or surroundings.

?Starfire? - August 20, 2020, 5:30 pm

The Netherlands has it's appeal and so does the USA. Neither are a bad place to live objectively. Although there are definitely areas to avoid in the US in my opinion depending on who you are, lol.

I'd offer to help you out but I myself am under the poverty line lmao.

Pink Floyd - August 20, 2020, 5:39 pm

In the near future I am planning to immigrate to USA as well, but that could take around couple of years while I am sorting things out in my life.

I have a person (Relative) willing to sponsor me for my visa.

Charmz- - August 20, 2020, 6:07 pm

Eh, it's not so great here right now. But I also understand.

Snowwy - August 20, 2020, 6:17 pm

You think D. Trump will let you?

Free Kurdistan - August 20, 2020, 6:20 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:13 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I like the people, way of life and overal business and capitalistic/opportunistic methods of approaching things in life.

If that's what you like then it's reasonable. I would personally never do it, I think it's overrated imo.

Prox - August 20, 2020, 8:17 pm

Speaking as someone who has lived in other countries as well as the US, I would say go to Canada or somewhere that's less stressful.

Yanix - August 20, 2020, 8:22 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 04:41 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's a fugging hassle though. ?

If I am not mistaken processing of immigrant documents currently are being halt until December 2020.

A + - August 20, 2020, 10:22 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:23 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A financial stable person, who can support me if my income falls under a poverty threshold:

An Affidavit of Support, also called the Form I-864, is a document an individual signs to accept financial responsibility for the applicant who is coming to live in the United States. The person who signs the Affidavit of Support is also called the "sponsor." The petitioner must complete Form I-864; however if the petitioner's income is insufficient, a joint-sponsor may agree to also complete an I-864 on the applicant's behalf.

An Affidavit of Support is legally enforceable. The sponsor's financial responsibility usually lasts until the applicant either becomes a U.S. citizen, or can be credited with 40 qualifying quarters of work (usually 10 years) under the Social Security Act.

No thank you. I never liked the Dutch language, people or surroundings.
I didn't realize those were so harsh. Can you get some sort of 1 year Visa or anything? I saw you could get in for 90 days through the waiver program, not sure if there is anything easier.

Bacardi Cola Lime - August 20, 2020, 10:26 pm

Consider Canada as well. Big and beautiful country. Better healthcare system and the weed is legalized everywhere.

Goods - August 20, 2020, 10:39 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:15 PM)Vibe Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 0/10 very ghetto wouldn't recommend Indeed it is. I would recommend Canada. tbh siddy357 - August 20, 2020, 10:58 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 04:41 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's a fugging hassle though. ?
that is not going to be an easy road atm.

(Aug 20, 2020 04:43 PM)Kushy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You should try the Canada before. It's like the States but in better. Jokes for everyone who can't get it canada is a better option but now as they are giving more PR's it is going to be hard to find employment in the near future.

(Aug 20, 2020 05:20 PM)SuitedPear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What kind of person needs to sponsor you?
He needs a H1 visa so as to work in USA ,which he can get from a employer who will be happy to have him on his team in USA.

(Aug 20, 2020 10:26 PM)Bacardi Cola Lime Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Consider Canada as well. Big and beautiful country. Better healthcare system and the weed is legalized everywhere.
i will definitely consider it one day.

BiggL - August 21, 2020, 12:01 am

I dont know about right now.. but I have always wanted to move to the US in the past.

siddy357 - August 21, 2020, 12:26 am

(Aug 21, 2020 12:01 AM)BiggL Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I dont know about right now.. but I have always wanted to move to the US in the past.

so what gave you a change in mind or heart so as to not think of moving to the US atm?

$neaky - August 21, 2020, 12:38 am

I'm loving it here in Scandinavia but if I were to immigrate then it would be Canada, heard lots of great things from there and the majority of people seems nice, got common sense etc.

Perileos - August 21, 2020, 12:42 am

(Aug 20, 2020 08:17 PM)Prox Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Speaking as someone who has lived in other countries as well as the US, I would say go to Canada or somewhere that's less stressful.
I can handle the stress, it's not an issue.

(Aug 20, 2020 10:22 PM)SuitedPear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I didn't realize those were so harsh. Can you get some sort of 1 year Visa or anything? I saw you could get in for 90 days through the waiver program, not sure if there is anything easier.

That wouldn't allow me to work and I'm also not sure as to if I could become a citizen through those 90 day visas.

RIP Juice WRDL - August 21, 2020, 1:18 pm

Why would you want to immigrate there, unless you're filthy rich?

spiral - August 21, 2020, 1:29 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 10:39 PM)Goods Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Indeed it is. I would recommend Canada. tbh
Are you from Canada?

Honestly I would like to move to Canada at some point.

$JayViaLV - August 21, 2020, 1:33 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:15 PM)Vibe Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 0/10 very ghetto wouldn't recommend
I acknowledge this receipt of thought and I also agree with this man's stance on the US. Unless you go to like Maine or something.

PAXFun - August 21, 2020, 1:39 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 04:41 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's a fugging hassle though. ?
Good luck bro, i hope u will find better life there:)

Prepper - August 21, 2020, 3:15 pm

I will tell you man I do not think that is a smart decision right now. Things are on edge in this country and I fear it will only get worse after this upcoming election.

wizardblizzard - August 21, 2020, 3:17 pm

if u like fast food and guns

X-32 - August 21, 2020, 4:27 pm

A hassle that's worth it.

This is the last place on Earth with freedom.

Goods - August 21, 2020, 4:42 pm

(Aug 21, 2020 01:29 PM)spiral Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are you from Canada?

Honestly I would like to move to Canada at some point.

Nah im from the U.S unfortunately lmao. Id much rather move to Canada.

Silent hill - August 21, 2020, 5:21 pm

i don't recommend moving to the us, better go to canada or finland.

webdev77 - August 21, 2020, 5:32 pm

(Aug 20, 2020 05:13 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I like the people, way of life and overall business and capitalistic/opportunistic methods of approaching things in life.

Based on this statement alone, I can say you will like it here. The United States is the best country on earth to run a business in and have a shot at living a comfortable and care free life. Not everyone succeeds, but everyone is allowed to have a chance. Most immigrants are determined and can and will succeed. A huge number of US businesses were started by immigrants.

As one of my friends who immigrated from Europe put it, you don't feel American as a first generation immigrant, until you wake up and realize you can say what you want without fear. Without risk. Without any doubt that you could become an outcast in your own country for speaking the truth. This may not be quite as true for the Netherlands, but rest assured, the United States is a place where anyone has a chance to live a dream life.

Perileos - August 22, 2020, 2:33 am

(Aug 21, 2020 05:32 PM)webdev77 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Based on this statement alone, I can say you will like it here. The United States is the best country on earth to run a business in and have a shot at living a comfortable and care free life. Not everyone succeeds, but everyone is allowed to have a chance. Most immigrants are determined and can and will succeed. A huge number of US businesses were started by immigrants.

As one of my friends who immigrated from Europe put it, you don't feel American as a first generation immigrant, until you wake up and realize you can say what you want without fear. Without risk. Without any doubt that you could become an outcast in your own country for speaking the truth. This may not be quite as true for the Netherlands, but rest assured, the United States is a place where anyone has a chance to live a dream life.

The thing I appreciate the most as towards the business aspect is that the United States is extremely vast. The Netherlands is very cramped and small, thus land prices are extremely high. I am very interested in working on craft related things, e.g. building furniture - which require an additional space in the Netherlands if you live in a regular home. These additional spaces are very expensive, albeit a small warehouse. Building your own workshop is much more possible in the United States than it is here.

If I am not mistaken, the taxes in the US are different as well which are also more favourable. If I were to say, purchase a new car. It would cost me an additional 40%, just for the taxes alone.

Ortek - August 22, 2020, 2:55 am

(Aug 21, 2020 05:32 PM)webdev77 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Based on this statement alone, I can say you will like it here. The United States is the best country on earth to run a business in and have a shot at living a comfortable and care free life. Not everyone succeeds, but everyone is allowed to have a chance. Most immigrants are determined and can and will succeed. A huge number of US businesses were started by immigrants.

As one of my friends who immigrated from Europe put it, you don't feel American as a first generation immigrant, until you wake up and realize you can say what you want without fear. Without risk. Without any doubt that you could become an outcast in your own country for speaking the truth. This may not be quite as true for the Netherlands, but rest assured, the United States is a place where anyone has a chance to live a dream life.

Can you explain me how on earth it can be the best country? Its the opposite of what you're saying. Economic situation is a disaster, what business? You guys have a higher debt than all the countries in the world have. USA has been selected as one of the worst countries to raise your kids and have a family life.

The American dream is more like the American nightmare.

Most Americans regurgitate "Christian" rhetoric, while constantly doing the opposite, and are brainwashed into believing the US is "the best", without knowing anything about other countries or cultures. In truth, America has become a third-world country with a huge army (and sociopaths in charge unafraid to use it without just cause). They are programmed into a perpetual state of fear in order to serve the interests of the international rich elite...

Some of you really need to wake up.

Perileos - August 22, 2020, 6:21 am

(Aug 22, 2020 02:55 AM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Can you explain me how on earth it can be the best country? Its the opposite of what you're saying. Economic situation is a disaster, what business? You guys have a higher debt than all the countries in the world have. USA has been selected as one of the worst countries to raise your kids and have a family life.
The American dream is more like the American nightmare.

Most Americans regurgitate "Christian" rhetoric, while constantly doing the opposite, and are brainwashed into believing the US is "the best", without knowing anything about other countries or cultures. In truth, America has become a third-world country with a huge army (and sociopaths in charge unafraid to use it without just cause). They are programmed into a perpetual state of fear in order to serve the interests of the international rich elite...
Some of you really need to wake up.

Webdev didn't state the US is the best country in the world, he said it's the best country in the world to start a business in. Are you seriously so dense to say "what business", even though 12 out of the top 20 biggest companies in the world are from the US, according to Forbes that is. Also, government debt doesn't equal business debt, as businesses and the state are separated. Perhaps in your communistic utopia it looks different.

jecoylecoy - August 22, 2020, 9:44 am

(Aug 20, 2020 04:41 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's a fugging hassle though. ?
I want to move to US too ?

ailo - August 22, 2020, 1:36 pm

Id recommend visiting there try living temporarily, had the same thoughts as you and wishes but changed my mine after a couple of years.

C++ - August 22, 2020, 1:44 pm

i have some houses here and i can get you work

Ortek - August 22, 2020, 2:14 pm

(Aug 22, 2020 06:21 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Webdev didn't state the US is the best country in the world, he said it's the best country in the world to start a business in. Are you seriously so dense to say "what business", even though 12 out of the top 20 biggest companies in the world are from the US, according to Forbes that is. Also, government debt doesn't equal business debt, as businesses and the state are separated. Perhaps in your communistic utopia it looks different.
Dude you should realize that those top 20 companies are a different club, and you ain't in it.
There is no need to get frustrated and throw with terms you have no clue of lol.

Government debt doesn't equal business debt yes I never said it was equal, but when the country is already in the deepest debt ever and the corporate debt is over 10 trillion dollars, equivalent to 49% of the economic output, you should start worrying mate.

When other forms of business debt are added in, including to partnerships and small businesses, that already extraordinary figure increases to $17tn.

Even before the covid pandemic, the level of corporate leverage was beginning to cause alarm. At the end of last year, the IMF issued a striking warning: as much as $19tn of business debt in eight countries led by the US — or 40% of the total. Let that sink in on you for a moment. Still thinking it's a good idea?

With companies filing for bankruptcy at the fastest pace since 2013, the American authorities have been forced to take exceptional measures to save jobs and prevent more companies from collapsing. The Federal Reserve pledged in April to buy trillions of dollars of debt, much of it owed by the corporate sector, while the government has set up a $500bn small business loans programme.

So I suggest you do some research, I'm not trying to bust your bubble but you have to do your homework.

bluud - August 22, 2020, 2:34 pm

The US is great man :)

There's a lot of drama here but I tend to just ignore it.

Perileos - August 22, 2020, 3:11 pm

(Aug 22, 2020 02:14 PM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Dude you should realize that those top 20 companies are a different club, and you ain't in it.

There is no need to get frustrated and throw with terms you have no clue of lol.

Elaborate where I have no clue of, I have a bachelors degree in Business Administration.

(Aug 22, 2020 02:14 PM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Government debt doesn't equal business debt yes I never said it was equal, but when the country is already in the deepest debt ever and the corporate debt is over 10 trillion dollars, equivalent to 49% of the economic output, you should start worrying mate.

When other forms of business debt are added in, including to partnerships and small businesses, that already extraordinary figure increases to $17tn. You implied state debt equals corporate debt. The only time state debt becomes an issue for it's citizens is when the state is no longer capable of withholding it's promises. That being schools, infrastructure and so on.

Do you also worry about random useless things, because somehow they can affect you, even if they do not immediately do?

(Aug 22, 2020 02:14 PM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Even before the covid pandemic, the level of corporate leverage was beginning to cause alarm. At the end of last year, the IMF issued a striking warning: as much as $19tn of business debt in eight countries led by the US — or 40% of the total. Let that sink in on you for a moment. Still thinking it's a good idea? I think you're grossly overestimating how much affect debt of an externality has on a citizen.

(Aug 22, 2020 02:14 PM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) With companies filing for bankruptcy at the fastest pace since 2013, the American authorities have been forced to take exceptional measures to save jobs and prevent more companies from collapsing. The Federal Reserve pledged in April to buy trillions of dollars of debt, much of it owed by the corporate sector, while the government has set up a $500bn small business loans programme.

So I suggest you do some research, I'm not trying to bust your bubble but you have to do your homework. Hold up a second, you are telling me the federal reserve is "buying" (I think you meant loaning) trillions of dollar, much owned by the corporate sector. To financially support the corporate sector, through the means of setting up a $500bn small business loans programme? Let just take a minute to process that statement.

The economy is a circle, what is invested will be returned back into the economy. At least that is a brief version of how the economy works. These businesses will be able to pay their employees, who in return purchase groceries, pay rent and so much more. Now if those trillions of dollars were kept as corporate reserves what would happen is that a large part of the economy would be forced to shut down. People wouldn't be able to eat, pay rent or pay for their internet connection. Perhaps it would have been for the better if they didn't loaned trillions of dollars so you wouldn't be able to spread your pseudo-intellectual bullshit.

By the way, I have done 4 years of intensive research as a major in International Business, which degree I gratefully received with a cum laude honour.

Ortek - August 23, 2020, 1:19 am

(Aug 22, 2020 03:11 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Elaborate where I have no clue of, I have a bachelors degree in Business Administration.

You implied state debt equals corporate debt. The only time state debt becomes an issue for it's citizens is when the state is no longer capable of withholding it's promises. That being schools, infrastructure and so on.

Do you also worry about random useless things, because somehow they can affect you, even if they do not immediately do?

I think you're grossly overestimating how much affect debt of an externality has on a citizen.

Hold up a second, you are telling me the federal reserve is "buying" (I think you meant loaning) trillions of dollar, much owned by the corporate sector. To financially support the corporate sector, through the means of setting up a $500bn small business loans programme? Let just take a minute to process that statement.

The economy is a circle, what is invested will be returned back into the economy. At least that is a brief version of how the economy works. These businesses will be able to pay their employees, who in return purchase groceries, pay rent and so much more. Now if those trillions of dollars were kept as corporate reserves what would happen is that a large part of the economy would be forced to shut down. People wouldn't be able to eat, pay rent or pay for their internet connection. Perhaps it would have been for the better if they didn't loaned trillions of dollars so you wouldn't be able to spread your pseudo-intellectual bullshit.

By the way, I have done 4 years of intensive research as a major in International Business, which degree I gratefully received with a cum laude honour.

Listen mister bigshot you are the one who started insulting, looks good on your bought degree. You seriously have no idea what you are talking of yes, they have brainwashed you well. You really should go to the USA and stay there, it's where an idiot like you belongs. Good luck. What are you waiting for? Go go go go

Perileos - August 23, 2020, 2:07 am

(Aug 23, 2020 01:19 AM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Listen mister bigshot you are the one who started insulting, looks good on your bought degree. You seriously have no idea what you are talking of yes, they have brainwashed you well. You really should go to the USA and stay there, it's where an idiot like you belongs. Good luck. What are you waiting for? Go go go go Bought with effort.

It's all what ya'll people who hate the USA say, "brainwashed".

Ortek - August 23, 2020, 2:49 am

(Aug 23, 2020 02:07 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Bought with effort.

It's all what ya'll people who hate the USA say, "brainwashed".

I sincerely hope so, and i definitely don't hate the USA all I'm saying is when you look at the numbers its not the best idea to go there. And even then you try to defend it but you cant. I'm Dutch myself so I hope you can imagine that I'm only being realistic and not hateful. Most of the members I know on here are Americans and I love the guys they're great people. But that doesn't mean that I'm even considering moving there. I hope that clears it.

Perileos - August 23, 2020, 4:12 am

(Aug 23, 2020 02:49 AM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I sincerely hope so, and i definitely don't hate the USA all I'm saying is when you look at the numbers its not the best idea to go there. And even then you try to defend it but you cant. I'm Dutch myself so I hope you can imagine that I'm only being realistic and not hateful. Most of the members I know on here are Americans and I love the guys they're great people. But that doesn't mean that I'm even considering moving there. I hope that clears it.

Numbers never accurately represent things. If you believe truly that numbers should tell you where to go and where not to go, you're in for a rude awakening. Unless it's the price for a hotel stay which is too expensive. All kidding aside, basing your arguments and points solely on numbers is never fully supported. You can claim the high amount of debt in the USA is negative, whilst someone who wants to start a bank in the USA sees it as positive because according to those same statistics a lot of people borrow money.

I'm Dutch as well and being Dutch doesn't have anything to do with being realistic.

Ortek - August 23, 2020, 5:28 am

(Aug 23, 2020 04:12 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Numbers never accurately represent things. If you believe truly that numbers should tell you where to go and where not to go, you're in for a rude awakening. Unless it's the price for a hotel stay which is too expensive. All kidding aside, basing your arguments and points solely on numbers is never fully supported. You can claim the high amount of debt in the USA is negative, whilst someone who wants to start a bank in the USA sees it as positive because according to those same statistics a lot of people borrow money.

I'm Dutch as well and being Dutch doesn't have anything to do with being realistic.

I dont know what's wrong with you, seriously. Numbers represent everything, no matter what business you're in. When a country has nothing but negative government and corporate debt, it says a lot if not everything about the economic situation. It's all about to blow up which is clearly visible yet you say you see no smoke or fire. And if you paid any attention it's not the only reason, definitely not. Even a blind person can see that when you add up all the negative points and aspects you see the real picture, which you clearly don't. And yet you talk about being realistic. Are you taking the piss?

And you are not one of the big boys and you're not going to start a bank, so what are you talking about?

Yes I know you're Dutch because I have read the posts, but have you? It was only to point out that I'm not a hater. Pay attention or dont post at all if you cant keep up son.

Perileos - August 23, 2020, 5:36 am

(Aug 23, 2020 05:28 AM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I dont know what's wrong with you, seriously. Numbers represent everything, no matter what business you're in. When a country has nothing but negative government and corporate debt, it says a lot if not everything about the economic situation. It's all about to blow up which is clearly visible yet you say you see no smoke or fire. And if you paid any attention it's not the only reason, definitely not. Even a blind person can see that when you add up all the negative points and aspects you see the real picture, which you clearly don't. And yet you talk about being realistic. Are you taking the piss?

And you are not one of the big boys and you're not going to start a bank, so what are you talking about?

Yes I know you're Dutch because I have read the posts, but have you? It was only to point out that I'm not a hater. Pay attention or don't post at all if you can't keep up son.

Ugh you're legit next level autistic. I used a metaphor.

<https://tradingeconomics.com/netherlands/private-debt-to-gdp>
<https://tradingeconomics.com/united-states/private-debt-to-gdp>

Private debt to GDP was higher in the NL than it was in the USA, yet PPP grew, yet GDP grew, yet the economy grew. I ain't going to explain economics to you and this is the end of the conversation. You're too dense to understand economics.

Ortek - August 24, 2020, 1:26 am

(Aug 23, 2020 05:36 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ugh you're legit next level autistic. I used a metaphor.

<https://tradingeconomics.com/netherlands/private-debt-to-gdp>
<https://tradingeconomics.com/united-states/private-debt-to-gdp>

Private debt to GDP was higher in the NL than it was in the USA, yet PPP grew, yet GDP grew, yet the economy grew. I ain't going to explain economics to you and this is the end of the conversation. You're too dense to understand economics.

I could agree with you but then we'd both be wrong.

You should ask a refund on your college money, seriously. No need to be rude, even if it's all you know in that little world of yours.

I don't know where you get this from but you're full of shit.

You have no idea how this works and I'm sure you bought your degree online.

Stop posting before you make a complete fool out of yourself kid.

Unfortunately for you there's no vaccine against stupidity.

edit: your neg rep gives a pretty clear indication that more members know what you really are.

Perileos - August 24, 2020, 3:31 am

(Aug 24, 2020 01:26 AM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I could agree with you but then we'd both be wrong.

You should ask a refund on your college money, seriously. No need to be rude, even if it's all you know in that little world of yours.

I don't know where you get this from but you're full of shit.

You have no idea how this works and I'm sure you bought your degree online.

Stop posting before you make a complete fool out of yourself kid.

Unfortunately for you there's no vaccine against stupidity.

edit: your neg rep gives a pretty clear indication that more members know what you really are.

<https://www.worldatlas.com/articles/best-countries-to-start-a-business.html>
<https://www.usnews.com/news/best-countries/best-start-a-business>

Let me tell you what a horrible country would be to start your business in. Corrupt countries, political/social unstable and restrictive countries.

You're just on the "hate the USA bandwagon" and can't back up what you're saying.

Tell me, what have you studied?

Also I don't give a rats ass about popularity, I say what I think without pleasing anyone.

Eagle 95 - August 24, 2020, 5:35 am

(Aug 23, 2020 04:12 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Numbers never accurately represent things. If you believe truly that numbers should tell you where to go and where not to go, you're in for a rude awakening.

When you're going 80 in a 50kmh zone and cop pulls you over, would you tell him that numbers never accurately represent things? If we dive into what is the topic of this thread, then in that context, according to the above sentence, you can move to South Sudan as numbers never accurately represent things.

Keep in mind, I'm not saying you should or should not move to the USA, I'm just saying your sentence above makes zero sense. You claim you have a degree in business administration. If you know your stuff, you'd know that numbers mean absolutely everything. Every stupid manager will squeeze more out of his employees for greater and more favorable numbers.

Bossk - August 24, 2020, 6:00 am

The fuck op?? Going Netherlands --> US without any concrete reason is a huge downgrade. Abort.

BenCardson - August 24, 2020, 6:08 am

I'm trying to move out of the U.S. because there is tons of corruption, crazy people, propaganda, and stupid laws.

A good analogy of the U.S. is a kid who always says he is the best at everything. We all know someone like this. The outcome is mostly the same and the kid gets bullied and needs to lie and deceive people to get them to stop and hopefully get them on there side.

Go to Holland, but don't listen to a random dude on the internet do some better research.

Perileos - August 24, 2020, 6:09 am

(Aug 24, 2020 05:35 AM)Eagle 95 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) When you're going 80 in a 50kmh zone and cop pulls you over, would you tell him that numbers never accurately represent things? If we dive into what is the topic of this thread, then in that context, according to the above sentence, you can move to South Sudan as numbers never accurately represent things.

Keep in mind, I'm not saying you should or should not move to the USA, I'm just saying your sentence above makes zero sense. You claim you have a degree in business administration. If you know your stuff, you'd know that numbers mean absolutely everything. Every stupid manager will squeeze more out of his employees for greater and more favorable numbers.

Merely insinuated statistical analyses. Of course if you have 5 euros and you want to purchase something that costs 7 euros, you can not.

(Aug 24, 2020 06:08 AM)BenCardson Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm trying to move out of the U.S. because there is tons of corruption, crazy people, propaganda, and stupid laws.

A good analogy of the U.S. is a kid who always says he is the best at everything. We all know someone like this. The outcome is mostly the same and the kid gets bullied and needs to lie and deceive people to get them to stop and hopefully get them on there side.

Go to Holland, but don't listen to a random dude on the internet do some better research.
I assume you mean The Netherlands as Holland is a region, not a country. I don't care about your analogy, I do not represent that and never will.
I want to move there because I like the people and culture surrounding businesses.

SIM-1729678 - August 24, 2020, 6:25 am

Please move, we don't want you.

The Netherlands hereby completely steps away from the user known as "Perileos".

Let me tag some US folks for you to see if they want you.

SUI-3183372

Vitani's Mate

Orgy

[mention=110996]

Ortek - August 25, 2020, 2:29 am

(Aug 24, 2020 03:31 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

<https://www.worldatlas.com/articles/best-countries-to-start-a-business.html>

<https://www.usnews.com/news/best-countries/best-start-a-business>

Let me tell you what a horrible country would be to start your business in. Corrupt countries, political/social unstable and restrictive countries.

You're just on the "hate the USA bandwagon" and can't back up what you're saying.

Tell me, what have you studied?

Also I don't give a rats ass about popularity, I say what I think without pleasing anyone.

Corrupt countries, political/social unstable and restrictive countries? Sounds like you're talking about the USA in general.

<https://digital.com/how-to-start-a-business/best-countries/> (USA comes in last, any comments?)

<https://www.forbes.com/pictures/5a3440d1a7ea4314ae850380/2017-best-and-worst-count/#4a85c7393d53> (Not a word about the USA, any comments?)

<https://www.usnews.com/news/best-countries/best-start-a-business> (USA at spot 15, how's that possible?????????)

<https://www.visualcapitalist.com/worlds-best-and-worst-places-for-business/> (The United States, whose ranking has been slipping in recent years, came in at 8th spot. Must be a shock to you)

<https://www.cfr.org/blog/why-companies-are-leaving-united-states-and-how-get-them-back>

"The survey zeroes in on some 600 decisions in which companies were weighing whether to keep operations in the United States or move abroad; in more than 500 of those decisions, the United States lost."

America was ranked 34 out of 35 in a comparison of the world's biggest economies, scoring three 'F' grades for safety, cost of living and work-life balance, a 'D minus' for health, and a 'C+' for happiness and education.

The Netherlands is always high above the USA in all cases so do you see your aircastle crumbling apart?

I already explained that I dont hate the USA and have friends there but you are too stupid to even read or comprehend. So let me repeat: I don't hate the USA or the Americans themselves. I know that you would love to hear that I hate them, but I don't. See the difference? Must be hard when you dropout, you should've stayed maybe you could've learned something.

You don't care about popularity, right. However, it just might indicate what kind of person you are with as many negs as yours lol.

And sure you may post what you think as long as it's not complete nonsense. Just don't defend something you can't win.

You never had a business in the USA yet you claim to know it all. Personally I wouldn't sell you a rat's ass or buy anything from you, ever.

What have I studied? What kind of question is that? If common sense is common, why are you without it?

I went to uni myself but I still don't throw with any terms unlike you.

Use your brain and do your research as I mentioned a few posts earlier. It ain't that hard kid.

bluud - August 25, 2020, 3:50 am

(Aug 24, 2020 06:25 AM)ScreemS Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Please move, we don't want you.

The Netherlands hereby completely steps away from the user known as "Perileos".

Let me tag some US folks for you to see if they want you.

SUI-3183372

Vitani's Mate

Orgy

[mention=110996]

I want him, USA represent.

Perileos - August 25, 2020, 7:08 am

(Aug 25, 2020 02:29 AM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Corrupt countries, political/social unstable and restrictive countries? Sounds like you're talking about the USA in general.

<https://digital.com/how-to-start-a-business/best-countries/> (USA comes in last, any comments?)

<https://www.forbes.com/pictures/5a3440d1a7ea4314ae850380/2017-best-and-worst-count/#4a85c7393d53> (Not a word about the USA, any comments?)

<https://www.usnews.com/news/best-countries/best-start-a-business> (USA at spot 15, how's that possible?????????)

<https://www.visualcapitalist.com/worlds-best-and-worst-places-for-business/> (The United States, whose ranking has been slipping in recent years, came in at 8th spot. Must be a shock to you)

<https://www.cfr.org/blog/why-companies-are-leaving-united-states-and-how-get-them-back>

"The survey zeroes in on some 600 decisions in which companies were weighing whether to keep operations in the United States or move abroad; in more than 500 of those decisions, the United States lost."

America was ranked 34 out of 35 in a comparison of the world's biggest economies, scoring three 'F' grades for safety, cost of living and work-life balance, a 'D minus' for health, and a 'C+' for happiness and education.

The Netherlands is always high above the USA in all cases so do you see your aircastle crumbling apart?

I already explained that I don't hate the USA and have friends there but you are too stupid to even read or comprehend. So let me repeat: I don't hate the USA or the Americans themselves. I know that you would love to hear that I hate them, but I don't. See the difference? Must be hard when you dropout, you should've stayed maybe you could've learned something.

You don't care about popularity, right. However, it just might indicate what kind of person you are with as many nigs as yours lol.

And sure you may post what you think as long as it's not complete nonsense. Just don't defend something you can't win.

You never had a business in the USA yet you claim to know it all. Personally I wouldn't sell you a rat's ass or buy anything from you, ever.

What have I studied? What kind of question is that? If common sense is common, why are you without it?

I went to uni myself but I still don't throw with any terms unlike you.

Use your brain and do your research as I mentioned a few posts earlier. It ain't that hard kid.

"The survey zeroes in on some 600 decisions in which companies were weighing whether to keep operations in the United States or move abroad; in more than 500 of those decisions, the United States lost."

Sounds like you're talking about offshoring, e.g. salary is cheaper in China, rules and laws are more lenient.

You're just bleating non sense from now on.

(Aug 25, 2020 03:50 AM)bluud Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I want him, USA represent.

Cheerio lad. When is the adoption planned?

princegamblez - August 25, 2020, 10:19 am

I think you can just marry somebody and pay 25k or something to get your green card kinda blackhat but hey gotta pretend u found a lover naw mean

Ortek - August 26, 2020, 2:02 am

(Aug 25, 2020 07:08 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) "The survey zeroes in on some 600 decisions in which companies were weighing whether to keep operations in the United States or move abroad; in more than 500 of those decisions, the United States lost."

Sounds like you're talking about offshoring, e.g. salary is cheaper in China, rules and laws are more lenient.

You're just bleating non sense from now on.

Cheerio lad. When is the adoption planned?

It's obvious that you're the one full of nonsense and now that you can't say anything you just spill out more nonsense lol. As expected because I have extensive experience in dealing with idiots like you.

It's not about offshoring at all but keeping a business in the USA, see how dumb you are? Why lie about having a degree kiddo?

Go ask a refund on your college money. I'm done here. There is no vaccine against stupidity.

(Aug 24, 2020 06:25 AM)ScreamS Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Please move, we don't want you.

The Netherlands hereby completely steps away from the user known as "Perileos".

Let me tag some US folks for you to see if they want you.

SUI-3183372

Vitani's Mate

Orgy

[mention=110996]

LOL

Exactly, we dont need idiots like him.

Wish there was a Moron of the Month award so I could happily grant him one.

Supreme Kai - August 26, 2020, 3:04 am

I'm Dutch and think you are going to regret your decision in a few years... Great vacation destination tho.

Good luck anyways.

BenCardson - August 26, 2020, 3:58 am

(Aug 24, 2020 06:09 AM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Merely insinuated statistical analyses. Of course if you have 5 euros and you want to purchase something that costs 7 euros, you can not.

I assume you mean The Netherlands as Holland is a region, not a country. I don't care about your analogy, I do not represent that and never will.

I want to move there because I like the people and culture surrounding businesses.

I mean Holland, it doesn't matter that it is not a country you can still live in Holland. Seems like you already made up your mind, you're having a hard time understanding other peoples viewpoints on this thread. Anyways you do what you feel is best for yourself and good luck on your adventure.

FREEJBAY - August 26, 2020, 4:50 am

Thats something I wanted for a very long time..

Perileos - August 26, 2020, 4:54 am

(Aug 26, 2020 02:02 AM)Ortek Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's obvious that you're the one full of nonsense and now that you cant say anything you just spillout more nonsense lol. As expected because I have extensive experience in dealing with idiots like you.

It's not about offshoring at all but keeping a business in the USA, see how dumb you are? Why lie about having a degree kiddo?

Go ask a refund on your college money. I'm done here. There is no vaccin against stupidity.

Read that sentence. Whether they keep operations in the USA or not. You move operations abroad (called offshoring) to save on costs, escape rules, easier access to resources and so on. That often means manufacturing moves abroad, not the main operations. For example, Apple. Apple offshored and outsourced their manufacturing, however it still is an American company.

(Aug 26, 2020 03:58 AM)BenCardson Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I mean Holland, it doesn't matter that it is not a country you can still live in Holland. Seems like you already made up your mind, you're having a hard time understanding other peoples viewpoints on this thread. Anyways you do what you feel is best for yourself and good luck on your adventure.

Oh I understand your viewpoint(s), I just do not agree with them.

Injun Joe - August 26, 2020, 10:21 am

US used to be my top fav country to live when I was young but not any more. I still want to visit though.

Stanley - September 22, 2020, 4:01 pm

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
Stanley

Deany - September 22, 2020, 4:04 pm

Pros
fast food everywhere
Cons
crackheads everywhere

Bear - September 22, 2020, 4:09 pm

Look into Canada, express entry.

Grim - September 22, 2020, 4:22 pm

just walk in like everyone else man! joking aside though my friend is trying to apply for citizenship from the UK as well and its pretty rough :(

Casual - September 22, 2020, 5:46 pm

Just remember the US isn't just the East and West coast. A lot of easier opportunities in middle America, cheaper cost of living too. For example, a rental that was costing me $3.5k a month in Seattle is like $1.5k in Montana. Plus not a bunch of zombie druggies roaming the streets, or riots.

Moving next week to try out a new state ?

Aisun - September 23, 2020, 4:29 am

(Aug 20, 2020 04:41 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's a fugging hassle though. ?
Ugh same. But honestly I don't know if the tradeoff for safety is that worth it.

I'm pretty safe where I'm from.

Starks - September 23, 2020, 4:35 am

It's quite a process, and I wish you all the best while at it.

The Degenerate - September 23, 2020, 6:56 am

Same bro, I wish someone that is from US can assist. That's my dream :)

SIM-2315787 - September 23, 2020, 7:00 am

Yes me too. But maybe I should wait until the virus is over - maybe next year I guess?

Yanix - September 23, 2020, 7:07 am

(Sep 23, 2020 07:00 AM)music_in_me227 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes me too. But maybe I should wait until the virus is over - maybe next year I guess?

I have heard that the processing of immigrant papers are on hold currently and don't know when will it be back next year :D

Mr. Corleone - September 23, 2020, 7:26 am

(Sep 23, 2020 07:07 AM)Yanix Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have heard that the processing of immigrant papers are on hold currently and don't know when will it be back next year :D

Probably gonna have to wait a long time. People don't know how to practice proper hygiene and listen to quarantine laws.

Yanix - September 23, 2020, 7:28 am

(Sep 23, 2020 07:26 AM)Mr. Corleone Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably gonna have to wait a long time. People don't know how to practice proper hygiene and listen to quarantine laws. Yeah just a simple things to do for their own safety but they find it hard to follow.

YikesAu - September 23, 2020, 7:58 am

I can understand why you would want to move to USA, im personally from Australia so i dont really know anything about life there. It seems kind of whack to me though honestly. Have you thought of anywhere else, like maybe Australia ;) Its nice here ahahah! Goodluck with getting into the US though!

banxia - September 23, 2020, 5:12 pm

The United States is a lovely place, I would love to reside there somedat too, naybe not permanently though. At least a two weeks holiday in Miami will not hurt

Perileos - December 17, 2020, 12:37 pm

Been in recent talks with several immigrations lawyers as suggested by a lawyer friend of mine in the US.

Narzi - December 17, 2020, 1:29 pm

My question is: Where are you moving from? and for what reasons would you like to move to the USA?

guardian - December 18, 2020, 4:49 am

I remember when I went to the US as an exchange student for one semester

Getting the visa took days

Answering questions, driving hours to the US embassy in my country, waiting for my passport to arrive again ...

??e rando? d??c? g?y - December 18, 2020, 5:47 am (Aug 20, 2020 05:12 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm from The Netherlands, I have a bachelor's degree in Business Administration and currently engaged in learning a trade. I'm fluent in English and speak accent less.

I personally would move to Canada if I had the chance, much better then the United States :P Why do you want to leave NL?