Thread: Sports book cancel bet in 5 minutes.

Net - August 21, 2020, 5:43 am

Ok, I just made a mistake that I placed a bet on the wrong team (Yea, dumbass me) and I've noticed that there is no option to cancel the bet, unless I am not seeing it. I am not sure if this is intentional or not, but I would suggest that there would be an option to cancel a bet in the next few minutes (lets say 5) if by any chance you put your bytes on the wrong team.

I don't think this will be considered.

Most bookies don't even allow this (or the ones I know).

They do allow cash outs before a game is on, just not the full amount.

Ofc they do, just contact livechat and ask them nicely if they could cancel it for you.

Yes, that'll probably work.

But I mean, I've never seen it before where you can directly cancel the bet yourself.

I don't think this is needed. You just need to be careful next time you're betting on something.

well u made a mistake, and now u wanna new option implemented cause of your mistake ? :)

Dorrance - August 21, 2020, 6:38 am

I don't think this is needed, most betting websites don't even allow cancellations. I can only remember they allow 30min-1hr window with placing a bet last second before the event start.

That's what's going through my head too while I read this thread.

I do understand that, but I made a mistake cause of this mostly.

On the sportbooks page it is ordered "Team 1" vs "Team 2", but once you click on the bet it is switched to "Team 2" vs "Team 1".

I might be a little bitch about this, but I just find it confusing why it switches.

Yup got fucked the same way on a bet before.

Maybe an easy fix on their end but also could just read more carefully on our end too.

Because Americans show away team first, while Europeans show home team first

Not the point I was arguing at. I was highlighting that it switches the team order.

And I wasn't arguing either, I was just pointing the reason behind team order switch :)

i mean most sites i have used allow cashout before and during. During is a weird one it depends on how the team is doing changes the amount you can cashout but you can cashout up until the last few minutes.

I could consider a 10% surrender fee for bet cancellation. I'll discuss with Xerotic .
