

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: \(Help\) Not waking up to phone calls

Bossk - August 25, 2020, 12:02 am

I have an old iphone 6S that is great, but the speakers are crap. I missed a very important phone call this morning thanks to this, and I need a solution. Objective is simple: I need to wake up when my phone rings in the morning with >99% success rate.

Tried hooking it up to a large BT speaker but it didn't route the audio from the phone call to the speaker for some retarded reason. Need tips asap, I'm getting a new phone yes.

AsSaSs@iN - August 25, 2020, 12:56 am

Adjust your sleeping hours to a normal schedule that people would call? lol

Bossk - August 25, 2020, 1:04 am

(Aug 25, 2020 12:56 AM)AsSaSs@iN Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Adjust your sleeping hours to a normal schedule that people would call? lol

They call between 06:45 and 08:00. It's not a 100% guarantee that they call so it's a waste to get up at 06:45 each day, but I will now until I have solved this.

AsSaSs@iN - August 25, 2020, 1:09 am

(Aug 25, 2020 01:04 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They call between 06:45 and 08:00. It's not a 100% guarantee that they call so it's a waste to get up at 06:45 each day, but I will now until I have solved this.

Have you considered something like a google home? Either that or some speaker that has an AUX cord and plug it in directly. Preferably one with an AC supply that wont turn off over a period of time.

Bacardi Cola Lime - August 25, 2020, 1:40 am

What about a cheap smartwatch? My brother had one that vibrated when someone called. I can ask him which one it was if you want.

Free Kurdistan - August 25, 2020, 1:56 am

Have it as close to your head as your can or sleep with earbuds so you'll hear the calling fr fr.

Goods - August 25, 2020, 1:57 am

I believe they still make alarm clocks lmao. Cop one of those and youre golden.

BiggL - August 25, 2020, 2:21 am

(Aug 25, 2020 12:02 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have an old iphone 6S that is great, but the speakers are crap. I missed a very important phone call this morning thanks to this, and I need a solution. Objective is simple: I need to wake up when my phone rings in the morning with >99% success rate.

Tried hooking it up to a large BT speaker but it didn't route the audio from the phone call to the speaker for some retarded reason. Need tips asap, I'm getting a new phone yes.
have you tried using an aux cable??

Shiny Diamond - August 25, 2020, 3:19 am

(Aug 25, 2020 01:40 AM)Bacardi Cola Lime Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What about a cheap smartwatch? My brother had one that vibrated when someone called. I can ask him which one it was if you want.

Now smartwatch looks little bit more useful in my eyes. Thanks ^^

Method - August 25, 2020, 3:23 am

If you have really important calls / business and your phone is old, wouldn't it be ideal to finally upgrade?

bluud - August 25, 2020, 3:40 am

Get a new phone?

Hook up an external sound source (i.e speaker, etc.)

Desktop notifications for calls that you can hook up to a speaker and/or a smart watch that is able to accept the calls?

MightyOne - August 25, 2020, 3:59 am

I mean, you could just get a normal alarm watch for 5$ from a general store? :P

If not, then buying a cheap smart watch that vibrates when you get a call or hook it to a big speaker(none bluetooth)

Regulus - August 25, 2020, 4:01 am

Buy this and plug your iPhone into it and turn the volume to max

https://sxpro.co.uk/barefoot-sound-masterstack12-pair/?gclid=Cj0KCQjw7ZL6BRCmARIsAH6XFDIQoYCX1yOkP4N5hE4H30XBRUn1UVbWI9buA4sUN6D5uVzyhxUPfxoaAlI2EALw_wcB

?roye - August 25, 2020, 4:14 am

I was keep my phone under my pillow before I sleep so I don't miss any calls. The vibration wakes me up all the time.

siddy357 - August 25, 2020, 4:16 am

(Aug 25, 2020 12:02 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have an old iphone 6S that is great, but the speakers are crap. I missed a very important phone call this morning thanks to this, and I need a solution. Objective is simple: I need to wake up when my phone rings in the morning with >99% success rate.

Tried hooking it up to a large BT speaker but it didn't route the audio from the phone call to the speaker for some retarded reason. Need tips asap, I'm getting a new phone yes.
do you have alarm set on your ios?

if yes then no calls will be notified even you are wide awake and not looking at your phone.

Dorrance - August 25, 2020, 5:27 am

If your sleeping past calls, you might be overwhelmed bud. Try sleeping near your phone or putting it against the wall to project well speaker against wall.

Bossk - August 25, 2020, 9:06 am

(Aug 25, 2020 01:57 AM)Goods Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I believe they still make alarm clocks lmao. Cop one of those and youre golden.

(Aug 25, 2020 03:59 AM)MightyOne Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I mean, you could just get a normal alarm watch for 5$ from a general store? :P

If not, then buying a cheap smart watch that vibrates when you get a call or hook it to a big speaker(none bluetooth)

How is a regular alarm clock supposed to trigger when my phones receives a call?

anyhow, im currently building an arduiono device that will trigger an insane siren when continuous sound is measured. will update with video of this

Shiny Diamond - August 25, 2020, 9:34 am

(Aug 25, 2020 09:06 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) anyhow, im currently building an arduiono device that will trigger an insane siren when continuous sound is measured. will update with video of this Cant wait to see that

Vibe - August 25, 2020, 9:59 am

(Aug 25, 2020 01:04 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They call between 06:45 and 08:00. It's not a 100% guarantee that they call so it's a waste to get up at 06:45 each day, but I will now until I have solved this.

Just wake up at 6:45 and get a head start on your day if they don't call. Do some stretching, go sit outside enjoy the nice morning sir 6:45 is not really that early

Prepper - August 25, 2020, 10:53 am

You know my sister one time put a phone inside of a disposable cup and it increased the volume a good bit, maybe look into that temporarily if you cannot get a bluetooth speaker to work.

Blockonome - August 25, 2020, 10:59 am

Bro, not even sure if somebody have said this, but just buy a seperate alarm clock, you can get those for like less than 10 dollars online :) Just my opinion

Bossk - August 25, 2020, 11:03 am

(Aug 25, 2020 10:59 AM)DanishPastry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Bro, not even sure if somebody have said this, but just buy a seperate alarm clock, you can get those for like less than 10 dollars online :) Just my opinion

Yea bro, but how does alarm clock alert when my phone rings?

Blockonome - August 25, 2020, 11:19 am

(Aug 25, 2020 11:03 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yea bro, but how does alarm clock alert when my phone rings?

I know man, but I guess that you have 1 time of the day when you wake up? Wake up before the calls and be ready for them in advance - Not good to wake up, by someone calling you (especially not if it is an important call brother) <3

Michael - August 26, 2020, 3:42 am

The best tip someone could give you is indeed getting a new phone.

Yakless - August 26, 2020, 3:44 am

Im sure 2 pages in at least 20 people have tod you this but you just need to get a new phone lol

Alexander - August 26, 2020, 5:34 am

Clean out the speaker grills on your phone. Those get clogged a lot on iPhones (I've worked as a phone repairman).

Ares - August 26, 2020, 5:39 am

Just get a new phone. Easy as that really.

SIM-1232764 - August 26, 2020, 5:49 am

Nice yeah I was just going to suggest maybe time for a new phone.

PAXFun - August 26, 2020, 5:56 am

(Aug 25, 2020 12:02 AM)Bossk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have an old iphone 6S that is great, but the speakers are crap. I missed a very important phone call this morning thanks to this, and I need a solution. Objective is simple: I need to wake up when my phone rings in the morning with >99% success rate.

Tried hooking it up to a large BT speaker but it didn't route the audio from the phone call to the speaker for some retarded reason. Need tips asap, I'm getting a new phone yes.
Change ur phone, or buy one more just for calls.