

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Hurricane Laura upgraded to 'extremely dangerous' Category 4 - Louisiana/Texas border

Mr. Robot - August 26, 2020, 12:58 pm

Just a heads up to anyone who wants to get hold of family out there before it hits. Make sure you do so now, ensure they are safe and get your words in before possible destruction and no communication.

Hurricane Katrina was 174 mph winds - Laura is 140 mph. There are other factors involved but it could hit a category 5 like Katrina.

- Hurricane Laura was 7 mph short of a Category 5 storm as of 9 pm local time
- For Context, Hurricane Katrina was a Category 3 storm when it made landfall in 2005
- Tornado watches were issued in parts of the states until 8 am Thursday morning
- More than 500,000 residents in Louisiana and Texas were ordered to evacuate

The Amazing Sinner - August 26, 2020, 12:59 pm

Stay safe everybody! This one is gonna cause some real damage.

?ystem - August 26, 2020, 1:02 pm

Wow, it's been upgraded to a Category 4 Hurricane already? Christ on a bike, this year is just chaotic and seemingly neverending. I just hope we don't have the same situation as was with Hurricane Katrina back in 2005 and people take the situation very seriously.

parachute - August 26, 2020, 1:09 pm

laura will be much faster then 140mph

will be hitting land at min 170mph

Tensei - August 26, 2020, 1:19 pm

Jesus. This is going to be a serious storm if it's still a CAT4 when it makes landfall. Thankfully not nearly as powerful as some of the others we've gotten in the last 10 years.

A + - August 26, 2020, 1:26 pm

Man that is going to be devastating. If you live in the area I would at least get a cheap hotel for the night a little further north. Things can be replaced, I've been through a lot of hurricanes, and trust me I wouldn't stick around for it at all.

SIM-3257834 - August 26, 2020, 1:32 pm

Every fucking year people choose to leave the area at the last minute, you're either going to ride the storm out or die in it.

parachute - August 26, 2020, 1:51 pm

(Aug 26, 2020 01:26 PM)SuitedPear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Man that is going to be devastating. If you live in the area I would at least get a cheap hotel for the night a little further north. Things can be replaced, I've been through a lot of hurricanes, and trust me I wouldn't stick around for it at all.

"A LITTLE"

you mean wayyyyyy farther north. better look up katrina if you think this hurricane is small

Shiny Diamond - August 26, 2020, 2:09 pm

The damage is gonna be huge.. poor people..

?roye - August 26, 2020, 2:11 pm

Dang, stay safe everyone. </3

Regulus - August 26, 2020, 3:43 pm

This year has just been so great. ?

SIM-925118 - August 26, 2020, 4:06 pm

Living in Houston, hoping for the best and all others who will be affected.

Mr. Robot - August 26, 2020, 9:45 pm

Hurricane Laura was 7 mph short of a Category 5 storm as of 9 pm local time

- For Context, Hurricane Katrina was a Category 3 storm when it made landfall in 2005
- Tornado watches were issued in parts of the states until 8 am Thursday morning
- More than 500,000 residents in Louisiana and Texas were ordered to evacuate

MarvinMalware - August 26, 2020, 9:55 pm

What the fuck is going on in 2020, I was just reading about this a few minutes ago. That's some scary shit I'm hoping they get everyone somewhere safe in time, and really can only hope it doesn't cause too much damage. Yet another devastating event in 2020, how great.

Yanix - August 26, 2020, 9:58 pm

You guys take care out there...I am praying for you.

Keep safe everyone who are near that place.

God bless.

Nima304 - August 26, 2020, 11:19 pm

Man, the damage from this is going to be horrifying. Hopefully everyone had the chance to evacuate safely.

ETH - August 27, 2020, 12:21 am

It is really bad news

Anyone on HF living on there please move to some safer place you guys

SIM-3257834 - August 27, 2020, 12:41 am

(Aug 27, 2020 12:21 AM)ETH Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It is really bad news

Anyone on HF living on there please move to some safer place you guys

OMG ETH did you really just say that? You're telling them to move to a safer place?

Insert moving to a new location isn't as easy because XXXX excuse.

Let's be honest If I build my house in fire zone I shouldn't pikachu face when a fire pops off, I should have been prepared long ago when i moved in.

such as

[Video: <https://youtu.be/IGAoa1xZz-g>]

ETH - August 27, 2020, 2:01 am

(Aug 27, 2020 12:41 AM)cAkE Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) OMG ETH did you really just say that? You're telling them to move to a safer place?

Insert moving to a new location isn't as easy because XXXX excuse.

Let's be honest If I build my house in fire zone I shouldn't pikachu face when a fire pops off, I should have been prepared long ago when i moved in.

such as

[Video: <https://youtu.be/IGAoa1xZz-g>]

Bro I said that move to safe place like less impact place until this resolved

I know bro it costs $$$$ for people but life is more important than money for now

SIM-1232764 - August 27, 2020, 6:56 am

I guess this answers my question from another thread, predicted to be pretty bad...