Thread: 16 years old making more \$ online than most adults ;\)

Psychedelic. - August 27, 2020, 5:44 am

Hey everyone! I started my HF journey a long time ago, and I have created myself several income streams, whether they are autopilot, non-autopilot, greyhat, or whitehat, I do them. In the past year I have made myself well over $50k. Now I am doing around $1300-$2000 in weekly sales with one of my stores. I have multiple passive income streams paying a few hundred a month without work, and I am working to expand and help others learn how to replicate this. It has taken me years to get where I am at now and anyone can do it.

Started this store two weeks ago and its growing every week. I have a few other smaller ones currently.

There are the stats for just one of my stores right now, as for the last day on the chart, thats today so its showing as 0 until the day is over. I am present in multiple niches, this one paying in both btc and paypal. If I have to give anyone advice on how to make good money, it is to find a smaller niche and grow a website/store on it. It will take multiple attempts.

just got my new ledger, I have diversified my portfolio for long term holding.

This is all made with dropshipping?
Very nice and inspiring, looking to start with it as well.

Nope, not in dropshipping. Those are shoppy sales. I run a multitude of services, websites, and projects ranging from whitehat to greyhat, as well as some trading of stocks and cryptos :P

SIM-2327840 - August 27, 2020, 5:54 am

Are you dropshipping?

Nice earnings pal! Keep going.

nope, check above response, I dont like any of the hyped up stuff, not yet at least. Once I turn 18, and go to college I might get into that.

Nowadays, I see a lot off people earning through Shoppy.

Is account selling that profitable?

You gotta be more innovative than that if you want to make money. Everyone and their mom does that, its super hard to stock it with accounts, check them frequently, deal with 100 customers, etc. I own an account generator, which has around 1500 total customers. Basically you buy a monthly subscription (starting from $1, ending at $5), and you get a number of different sites you can get, the big ones. Before you get your account it is checked to see if it is live or not by the server, and if the account dies theres a button you hit to get a replacement.

Our current discord server has around 500 members, and growing everyday.

Great earnings. I'm just two years older than you and I've been exploring money-making opportunities as of now. I've made enough money offering graphics designing service but I'm yet confused regarding where to invest and where not to.

The earnings did in fact motivated me. Good luck with everything buddy!

thanks, imo GFX is kinda saturated, but always look for new things to do. 10x better to run a project yourself than to have someone else run it with your money, money isnt made by being lazy

I'm definitely not lazy. I've been searching for opportunities to invest the money that I've made so far and I'm totally confused about where shall I actually.

Keep hustling my dude! Good to see that you earn that much money so young. Make sure you use them wisely and you will have a wonderful life.

cmd - August 27, 2020, 3:49 pm

keep it up man doing much better than me lol and with accounts have you got them through logs like genesis market etc.? i want to start a shoppy store but wasn't sure on how i would go about getting them even cheaper than prices that i would resell them for.

A + - August 27, 2020, 5:07 pm

Is there a market on shoppy (Such as Etsy for example) or do you do your own advertising?

Eltrapo - August 27, 2020, 5:08 pm

It is kinda difficult, I dont want to become one of the ebook sellers that looks fake, but I do sell ebooks elsewhere, and my sales are doing well. I posted a sales thread here and it didnt get much traction. If I do ever become an ebook seller I hope to make the ebook market great again, or at least do my best to contribute towards it.

Most likely not going to, hf is way too saturated with bullshit mentoring and scammers who have never run their own successful online business before, and just prey on others who trust their rank and rep. My first business this year, I started with $25 and turned it into $2000 in two months of hardwork. Sure, I could offer a mentoring service but it would be pushed to the bottom by all the junk sellers

This thread always pops up, never left a comment but I keep taking a look at your earnings and it's amazing, both for your age and for the amount of money you're making. Keep that up mate. A small tip I could give to you, invest the profits not only in your current business, but do your research in order to diversify your earnings. With this being said, best of luck :)

Thats an issue I have right now. I have made a lot of profits from everything I do- 5 digits in my crypto wallet atm, but I am pretty much out of all of my projects right now minus my accounts service. Thus, I have a high bankroll for whatever I wish to do but I dont have the ideas as of what I can do. Right now I havent touched the money in about a week, its sitting in a portfolio of 50% ethereum, 25% litecoin, 25% bitcoin until I figure out what to do. I bought my ltc at 46 and ether I bought $2500 at $230 a token, and then more at the most recent dump to $320 a token.

I can't really talk about cryptos, since except for BTC/ETH I don't really trust other coins (except maybe XMR) but you should give a look at stocks, although you are still 16. Being underage it's really a pain in the ass, and crypto is one of the only things you can have/move yourself without having parental consent. Holding the account store $ until 18 isn't that bad either. Just don't throw it away haha.

true, i like cryptos for how they have done, but I always worry about future prices, if the shit crashes then everything I have worked for is gone

What products or services do you sell?

junnar1968 - September 21, 2020, 9:11 am

Congratulation on your earnings! Keep grinding bro! just be careful on betting, you can make money if you know the mechanics of the game but you will definitely loose all your earnings in just 1 sit if you don't know how it works. Better to find someone whos making money from it and replicate what his doing.

If you are at that age earning that kind of money, you really have a lots of potential when you grow old. Having $1k per month income is a life changing income for me.
