

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: To all non native English speakers on HF.

Mr. Robot - September 7, 2020, 12:29 pm

This is my updated alert to remind you to use "Grammarly" - the add on for your browser.

Not only will it make sure your sentences have correct pronunciations and spelling but if you highlight a word you don't understand, it will tell you the meaning.

Perileos - September 7, 2020, 12:32 pm

Tbh I don't really care about using proper spelling/grammar on an internet forum based on hacking. It's not like my ass is applying for a job.

Mr. Robot - September 7, 2020, 12:33 pm

(Sep 7, 2020 12:32 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Tbh I don't really care about using proper spelling/grammar on an internet forum based on hacking. It's not like my ass is applying for a job. It's not always about that - I've said it in the past but I'll say it again. You are far more likely to get replies on serious questions for learning when you make sense.

Grammarly also has a "tone detector" which will tell you how your sentence sounds - whether it comes across aggressive/angry or cheerful and friendly.

Vibe - September 7, 2020, 12:42 pm

(Sep 7, 2020 12:33 PM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's not always about that - I've said it in the past but I'll say it again. You are far more likely to get replies on serious questions for learning when you make sense.

Grammarly also has a "tone detector" which will tell you how your sentence sounds - whether it comes across aggressive/angry or cheerful and friendly.

This is an interesting feature going to have to check it out I'm bad with getting my tone across in text

01001 - September 7, 2020, 12:52 pm

I always use Grammarly, but most of the time, it's with no errors at all. Besides, the tone that I choose often matches my context, and Grammarly is there to confirm the same!

P.S.: I'm not a native speaker, though.

Blockonome - September 7, 2020, 4:04 pm

If your english is completely broken, then I can totally understand this, but not if you are good with the English language lol :D

.Alpha. - September 7, 2020, 6:06 pm

Still good for checking over small mistakes when you send emails and stuff even if you are a native speaker.

PokeBong - September 7, 2020, 6:08 pm

The tone detector feature is a nice add...

?roye - September 7, 2020, 6:12 pm

I'm not native but I do believe that I speak english really well, but I still have grammarly just in case I mess up.

Most of the time it just helps me correct spelling mistakes which I'm too lazy to fix myself manually. haha

phunted - September 7, 2020, 6:15 pm

I couldn't agree more, for those pointing out its a forum and not a job application.. Why not apply the same principles online and you'd be surprised with how much you'll pick up. You should always try to communicate clearly.

jecoylecoy - September 7, 2020, 6:21 pm

Thank you for this OP, I might try this :)

OBAMASELF - September 7, 2020, 10:35 pm

Feels like everyone on HF have decent english but Grammarly is one way to go for Essays.

J4mmy - September 7, 2020, 11:14 pm

Hackforums has given me so much regarding correct pronunciation and words that I did not know before I joined. For past 10 years I have vastly improved my skills in english as a non native speaker of it. Will use this and I must say, it has helped me in real life, business etc greatly of what I've picked up from here.

Eagle 95 - September 8, 2020, 1:02 am

Also to a good portion of native speakers, too. :)

Free Kurdistan - September 8, 2020, 1:03 am

I will keep this in mind for the future, thanks for sharing.

Bacardi Cola Lime - September 8, 2020, 4:26 am

Tools like Grammarly have been helping me improve my English and I'm glad they exist. I'm currently using LanguageTool, which is not perfect but still gets the job done.

Bastille - September 8, 2020, 4:37 am

I usually use the native tools included into web browsers, hope I didn't hurt your eyes guys ?

I tried Antidote, which is a fabulous software for French, however it's not as good as that for English, kinda disappointed so I don't use it anymore for English.

Michael - September 8, 2020, 5:02 am

Are you actively using this OP?

Google Chrome is already correcting my grammar and spelling, so not sure if this would be a good addition.

randomvodkaover - September 8, 2020, 5:49 am

I got to check this one out. Thanks for sharing this OP som3aa - September 8, 2020, 9:04 am this is pretty smart btw !

hfrocket1713 - September 8, 2020, 9:38 am

(Sep 7, 2020 12:32 PM)Perileos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Tbh I don't really care about using proper spelling/grammar on an internet forum based on hacking. It's not like my ass is applying for a job.
^ ^ ^ ^ ^

THIS.

Imfao on gawd why should you care about grammar in general unless its a job or school work. plus as someone who has taken 3 linguistic courses, technically "bad" grammar is still correct grammar if u can understand it :)

OP is def a virgin

Nate - September 8, 2020, 11:22 am

This is a great idea, and it would generally help improve the users understanding of English sentence structure and grammar rules.

A + - September 8, 2020, 11:25 am

I like that. Good looking out Mr. Robot.

Tensei - September 8, 2020, 5:41 pm

This is pretty cool. Even though English isn't my native language, I'm sure many will appreciate this. Perhaps on other websites other than HF though, because I don't think most people give a rats ass about grammar on here.

SIM-2315787 - September 9, 2020, 1:15 am

Just installed it thank you so much :)

SIM-4033767 - September 16, 2020, 9:32 pm

pretty useful but I can understand english perfectly fine ;D

PavelSmerdiakov - September 16, 2020, 11:10 pm

I downloaded it, it's working fine, thanks to you!
Better than google trad I guess.

Zencypher - October 4, 2020, 3:44 pm

Honestly, i never knew grammarly would be that useful. I'll definitely start using it, thank you

Lindros - October 4, 2020, 3:45 pm

That's useful for legit anyone. That's a sick feature honestly.

Starks - October 5, 2020, 1:26 am

I bet that will be very useful for many people on HF. Thanks so much for sharing.

Mr. Atlas - October 6, 2020, 6:01 pm

I use google translate most often are you angry against me?
Imao