Be careful buying in the future. User doesn't seem to be making his own methods, but instead searches the internet to copy paste and sell.

Shitty as all hell man. This is why I would never purchase something of the sort. Anyone offering verification methods like this are almost always public. 2nd Line was the only decent one on that entire list and it's public af.

He either is the same guy who posted in public the method that he's selling or he just did a simple copy-paste and he sells a public method.

I doubt that he posted it in public before start selling it but noone can be sure about that.

Waiting to see Braymek's reply.

I don't really want any trouble here. I said that I looked up some methods to do it and just post them on my sale thread. Didn't really knew about how public this methods were.

You looked it up on google, found a list and tried selling them here knowing people would buy it before knowing if they were new or public methods. This is a scam people use to avoid getting banned or disputed because you technically sold them a service. Almost happened to me when some retard was selling the iphone method to post fake snaps when it was public as fuck.

It would scam if the methods didn't work.

My method to make money, I will sell it for $50 soon:

1. Look for a job at walmart.
2. Perform the required tasks on that job.
3. Get paid out after 1 month.

(Method works and makes you money, so I'm not scamming anyone)

Dude, I just tried to sell the information that might be useful to somebody who needs it. You could probably find any information that its on the methods that people sells here, not because of that it means that it's a scam.

Yes.If I can find it with a simple Google search, in my opinion it's a scam. Trying to sell public information and make a profit. That is scummy as all hell. This thread should for sure stay to forewarn users of shit like this.

What I wrote in the sales thread it's similar because it's literally the same service but with my own girl.
