Thread: Member selling Carded merchandise! uid=4729712

Verdande - September 11, 2020, 11:19 pm

Hello everyone.

I feel like it is our duty to report people when we have a suspicion, unfortunately my suspicion turned out to be legitimate.

Profile Link : <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=4729712>

Alleged suspicion : Carded merchandise.

I was looking for some amazon gift cards and doordash gift cards, and this member seems to have whatever someone is looking for at any given time, which seemed a little suspicious to me.

He first told me he had these cards but we never ended up making the deal, as he wanted me to go first, and I rarely have a problem with people going first with me, but his low-standing account did play a part in why I didn't.

I told him that his stories are constantly changing every time we speak about how and when he obtained his gift codes, which ultimately wouldn't make sense unless he explained it, so he did just that:

Spoiler (Click to View)

It is a shame, as I spoke to some of the people on his B-rating, and they did use the code on their main account, under the assumption that everything he was selling was Ewhored, but sadly it is not.

Hope everyone is doing OK, stay safe and vigilant!

People like this cost me 5 grand already this year, and I am tired of seeing them get away with it too.

Oh wow. Nine come look at this lol

Sad to see. Low standing members usually do this type of shit if you don't see them ewhoring or selling a product and accepting gift cards. Always check things like where they post and what they sell.

That, and it seems as if the people who he gave and got B-rating from (the banned accounts) have VERY similar trading patterns, speculations could be that he paid to just get some b-rating, or might have been on different accounts.

This of-course like most things, are just speculations for now.

What you mean honest? You tried to scam me repeatedly, and ruined peoples accounts by carding merchandise.

I asked you what the price was, you didn't even know what you were selling at that moment.

Why would you sell a gift-card for 50% off, when you could have sold it to anyone else for 75%+.

I am glad you didn't though, you underestimate people, I didn't think for a second we would make a deal, let alone if you had what you claimed to have.

You make no sense, price was never an issue, you wanting me to just open my wallet and trust you was the problem.

Yeah I know, I appreciate it. I am mainly focused on the people he has been F'ing over, like one buyer admittedly put the code he sold on his main account, that is sure to slow down the business for that guy.

Ouch. I love these kinda posts though. Being diligent like this keeps the marketplace clean so thank you for the effort.
