hacking gmails... sounds like a scam hopefully it's not.

OP don't close until you have access to the account or your money back guy had good ratings and everything people are just weird i dont get it.

Favorit - September 20, 2020, 11:22 pm good ratings or not, dont trust anyone in here.

some people just wait until they have enough good ratings and then they will start scamming.

Money Man - September 21, 2020, 6:37 am

I do not get why people really think someones gonna hack a gmail for a few hundred bucks..
come on. look @ his previous disputes, good you used a contract but really? takes literal second to look him up.

spiral - September 21, 2020, 8:51 am fag took a 6 month vac ban for $350...

So after seeing all of this, even tho two of them are resolved, you still do not want to use a middle-man/ go first? Not suspicious at all? ok.

Bro leave the dude alone holy shit.

And no, nothing looks suspicious there.

Most of them were opened by him, the two that weren't were resolved. The only open one against him was with a member that appears to of done it as revenge due to Mineral opening a dispute first.

All those disputes / past transactions don't sus you? LOL ok bud. Just giving him my advice reason why there's a deal dispute section on profiles lmao.

Yeah weird because I don't get scammed and deal safe.

Your advice is stupid.

Please tell me why someone making disputes about THEM being scammed is suspicious?

clown i can see why you have negative b-rating yeah from a closed member who exit scammed LOL. Got me there big fella.

Do I really need to answer why someone making disputes about the user makes them suspicious? Let's think about this for a second.. hm the guy has had open issues with VARIOUS users / has open and resolved disputes. Let me send first to him and not use a middle man! On top of that I'm getting gmail access for 300$!!! Yup. I'm completely wrong, couldn't have seen it coming.

I don't think you can read at all so let me say it again.

1. Most of his disputes were OPENED BY HIM, NOT OPENED ON HIM. MEANING HE WAS SCAMMED.

2. 2/3 of the dispute opened on him were resolved. Meaning he didn't scam and was most likely a misunderstanding.

3. The ONE dispute that was still open on him, was created AFTER he opened a dispute on that person, meaning it was most likely a petty dispute from the other member.

You seem to lack braincells so I've tried my best to dumb it down for you.

You seem to lack braincells so I've tried my best to dumb it down for you. Key word MOST. Most likely didn't scam and was a misunderstanding for 2/3 disputes. Ok? So you knowing that are gonna send 300$ to someone who doesn't want to use a middle man and has had previous issues with several users.

On top of that has ONE open dispute. Yeah he's not sus at all!! Clean profile.

You should be careful dealing on here and utilize site functions like deal disputes to see information like this prior and use a middle man.

I stand by what I said, wasn't being mean I was pointing out the obvious.

Don't care if 2/3 disputes are resolved, disputes are disputes. And gmail hacking for 300$?

Must be next level stupid. No reason not to use a middle man, just excuses.
