Then you're aware that each deposit machine is in an ING office/store/building and not outside.

of course, but I never see the menu to withdraw 10K euro. unless you put the money inside, that is possible.

once again, why did you give me negative? what is the point of that?

You literally flex with pulling 10k out of your own bank? Weird to do, but okay.

My free advice;

< Invest some of the cash or bank money in funds, stocks at a longterm payout and dividends

< Use some of the cash or bank money as emergency funds (up to 3x your monthly expenses and living expenses)

< Use some of the cash or bank money for physical investing such as Gold which is a safe way to 'secure' your cash without much space in use

And if you feel like flexing, in my opinion, show me that you donate at least 1000 to your mother and/or other relatives.

Make them happy, not us :-)

Share at least 1000 Euro with your mother and/or another relative or person you love.

Promise them to donate it them to keep it and never ask it back. Post proof and you got my eternal respect.

This is just another withdraw & waste or deposit back flex. Not impressed, but no hate either.

Good luck further in business and life. I won't bother you any longer.
