Thread: Looking for Constructive Criticism on My music

MetaSploit - September 22, 2020, 9:12 am

Hi. I'm a producer and do mainly Rap Hip Hop instrumentals with a psychedelic touch, but some time ago I met this superb guitarist.

We are trying to merge together heavy metal, alternative Rock from his side, and Rap, Trap, and Hip Hop style from My side.

We made a couple of tracks. I will post our latest. I would appreciate it if someone can give his opinion on what to improve.

That's sick bro. Almost reminded me of a Tool (other than the or nonpoint instrumental. I guess it isn't really prog like Tool but still sounded dope.

It sounds great, personally i didnt get a real rap, trap or hip hop vibe from it. That might just be me but if you're looking for constructive criticism maybe make your side more apparent. I totally got that is was a rock song but i didnt get a hip hop vibe at all tbh, like i said though that might just be me, im not a music critic in anyway, just sharing my thoughts ?

Bro, the drums need some more kicks of double pedals.. that would be sickness to hear, and need heavy bass tone also. But overall, this is already grunge enough! Metal YEAH!

It sounds like Pantera. I like it. I can't hear much hip - hop / rap in there either.

I know this guy for a long time. He is so sick and good with this. He even has his own studio! He once sold one of his tracks to a game developer to put as a background music for few levels.

The Motion GFX in Video backgrounds are dope, sound is HQ, vibes are excellent. I can see him getting hired for making Video Promotions or just editing videos.

Very nice job mate, I hope you get far.
