

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How to grow a twitter account?

hose10 - September 22, 2020, 3:12 pm

How can i grow a twitter account? Should i use any kind of bot or buy any service? I

Billeh - September 22, 2020, 3:55 pm

I've grew a couple of Twitter accounts pretty big without a bot or service. What niche are you looking to create?

pimpim - September 23, 2020, 12:24 am

It depends on your niche, then you can just search for hashtags and start to follow people that the same niche as you are. You can check whether they follow you back, if some of them are don't, just unfollow them.

Repeat this every week, you will have good followers based on your niche.

And don't forget to tweet something useful for them too.

Starks - September 23, 2020, 1:04 am

You can grow a Twitter account fast without a bot. You'll need to tweet frequently, draw your followers outside of Twitter, identify followers within your network, creating an inviting network, engaging with replies, retweets and tags, using hashtags, posting visual content, and optimizing your posting time, among other strategies.

hose10 - September 23, 2020, 12:31 pm

(Sep 22, 2020 03:55 PM)Billeh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I've grew a couple of Twitter accounts pretty big without a bot or service. What niche are you looking to create?Its about sportsbetting tips. I think a bot with targeted audience will help.

(Sep 23, 2020 01:04 AM)Starks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can grow a Twitter account fast without a bot. You'll need to tweet frequently, draw your followers outside of Twitter, identify followers within your network, creating an inviting network, engaging with replies, retweets and tags, using hashtags, posting visual content, and optimizing your posting time, among other strategies.I started to tweet yesterday and currently i have zero followers so is kind of difficult to draw them outside when they see none follows me back. You gave me some great tips it would be great if you could tell me more. I want to build a routine for growing my account but i dont know how to start.

pipito - September 23, 2020, 5:29 pm

Do not use bots, sooner or later you may regret that decision and it is useless to have a large account if there are no real followers. I would start by following other people in my niche and tweeting frequently.

pissedaf - September 23, 2020, 11:26 pm

As other users have written, it all depends on the niche you choose. You can start by following larger profiles of the same niche with a larger audience. Comment on their posts with quality answers that are noticeable. Don't spam because you can just shut down your profile with a block. Good luck and be persistent because perseverance leads to a successful outcome. :)

mindshift5 - September 27, 2020, 9:16 am

Well you have most of what you need contributed on the thread..

First things first
Find a niche

REEND - October 14, 2020, 4:42 am

As Starks said, , the simplest thing is:

(Sep 23, 2020 01:04 AM)Starks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) tweet frequently, draw your followers outside of Twitter, identify followers within your network, creating an inviting network, engaging with replies, retweets and tags, using hashtags, posting visual content, and optimizing your posting time...
And follow/unfollow your competitors' followers (not big accounts, they won't follow you)