Thread: eBay income from the past 90 days

Rezon ® - September 23, 2020, 3:53 am

Hi All,

Been working on a genuine eBay shop following months of research and managed to hit the below in the past 3 months. (This is not drop shipping)

I'm current converting at about 35% profit margin so profit was around £3,420 so approx £1,140 a month on 90% autopilot. (Around 30 mins a day work)

Last 90 days.

PayPal holding is so annoying, 21 days sometimes!

Anyone have an eBay shop or working towards one? It's a great platform to use.
Don't message me about what I'm selling, it's a niche and unsaturated so works well in the UK.

Great earnings man! Do you believe it might get saturated someday?

PokeBong - September 23, 2020, 6:42 am

Great job! Now flip that income into something that generates more passive income!

Congrats mate. Very nice income. I used to buy and sell via ebay, but I closed it because lately too many people asking for refunds. What a headache for me.

I pm'ed you to ask what you're selling bud.

Can I get a vouch copy of the method?

Spoiler \(Click to View\)Jk bud. Good job.

Congrats Bro, i had a good run selling software keys on ebay but that got shut down. I think at its peak i was making $200 profit a day which was nice. Eventually got banned from selling and some people are asking for refunds now which is hitting me hard. Still not sure if ebay was the move. I did make alot of profit tho

I rarely get refunds because of the product I sell, so works very well for me. Thinking about expanding to amazon...

Congratulations about your earnings. It is an impressive milestone to achieve 1k per month. It is a pretty decent money if you would ask me.

I have an experience selling on eBay but it sucks when Paypal are holding your funds for 21 days.
