

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Infamous contest || Win L33T or UB3R AND \$25 In Awards || 1 Winner = 2 Awards!

Kill Joy - September 25, 2020, 7:28 pm

This contest is brought to you by Infamous.

The winner may chose 2 of the following:

- Upgrading a normal member to L33t
- Upgrading a L33t member to Ub3r
- Gift you an award of your choosing worth max $25

Please read the following requirements before entering the contest

Requirements

Must have at least 50 posts

Must not have any deal disputes

Posting multiple times will automatically disqualify you from this contest

Must not be an ewhore

You are allowed to participate in other Infamous contests if you have not won before. Once you have won an Infamous contest, you are no longer allowed to enter any other contest we host.

Please be respectful to everyone's posts as it may have sensitive material.

How to win?

At least one paragraph (5 quality sentences) on something you are passionate about AND why. This may be something you have recently picked up or have been doing for over a decade. The most quality and passionate person, in their own interest, will be picked as winner. Contest ends October 1st 12am EST.

The winner will be chosen personally by the Infamous leaders in an majority vote.

Winner:

Skisuit - September 26, 2020, 2:06 am

Big thanks to Kill Joy and Infamous for hosting this giveaway, I'll love to win an account upgrade!!

Over these past few years, my newest yet biggest passion revolves mainly in cyber forensics and penetration testing. I am a strong believer that learning never stops taking place, although as a student specializing in cyber security, schools are still unable to teach us everything regarding forensics. When I joined hackforums, I spent a lot of time browsing threads in Advanced Hacking, and realised there's still many more things in store for me. For example, in school I was only taught on the procedures to perform static/live forensics on Windows and Android OS, through this forum, I discovered new ebooks that taught forensics on Linux and MacOS that were recommended by some members here. I find it thrilling and exciting to recover/preserve data and information on PCs and phones. In the future, I wish to apply this passion of mine in my future job after graduation from school.

Kill Joy - September 28, 2020, 7:03 pm

I'll hand out awards to only one person if I have to.

BTB™ - September 28, 2020, 9:55 pm

Hi,

First of all, thanks for the contest and here it is my entry -

I can say I am passionate about the upcoming/new technologies that we see or hear about. Especially some crazy gadgets that are getting invented now a days. All our homes are slowly and gradually getting filled with them. Like remotely controlled air conditioning, refrigerators. Even the fans and light obeying our voices. Actually, it's endless. Time is not far when each and every human task would be taken over by this rapidly increasing technological world. I know there are certain disadvantages as well. But, every coin has two sides. In my personal opinion, the human being would always be superior, as we are the ones who have created this wonderful thing called - TECHNOLOGY! I simply love it.

Cheers.

Shaggy - September 30, 2020, 2:53 am

Though too much is not healthy. I am passionate about helping my family and close friends in life and some finances when I am able to give to them. I am also researching and trying my luck on Bug Bounty nowadays but I only discover low risk exploits in which pay less or even none but acknowledgements. With that in mind I love developing games on my own for and still practicing the features of the engine to make a game that I've always wanted to experience that is focused around the stories in the back of my mind. In my free time I browse around the forums looking for topics that I can take part to and reply with confidence and curiosity at the same time but some times I overstepped my bounds making me nosy for being too curious about the subject matter. Lately I was able to achieve a peaceful environment which I could finally focus on working online via some Methods that I know of to earn additional money to support whom I need to support in my life.

Thank You for Reading!

SIM-4823871 - September 30, 2020, 3:28 am

Thanks for the contents.

I'm passionate in programming which includes web, desktop and mobile development. I'm also passionate about investing cryptocurrency such as bitcoin, Ethereum and etc. Also modern technologies such as electric vehicles, solar panels and Artificial Intelligence. In my free time I play with my skateboard to exercise, to have fun and meet other people. I also browse forums that I can engage and share my insight and knowledge anything about technology.

junnar1968 - September 30, 2020, 4:35 am

Thanks for this opportunity Kill Joy,

I'm passionate in finding a method that will allow me to make some money through online, I've been joining some forums or even hidden chat groups that provide some help to those who would like to make some earnings. I started to look for some method since 2012. I make decent money from affiliate but it's not consistent but I'm still here trying to find my luck to find something that will allow me to earn consistent money online. When I discover something that I think I will be profitable It gives me some excitement and eagerness to take an action specially if someone is already making money out of it. However having opportunity to be upgraded to L33T will allow me to post more and have more access to this Forum and to provide my assistance/advices to other members. I really appreciate being on his awesome forum and already acquired some knowledge that I already applied to some of my methods. Looking forward to be upgraded to L33T.

Thanks in advance Kill Joy! Stay safe bro!

darkthrone99 - October 2, 2020, 9:04 am

Thank you for hosting this contest.

I've always passionate about football/soccer though I'm not really good in this sport. My favorite team is Juventus from Serie A Italy. I've supported thus team since I'm always 12 years old. My favorite players always will be Gianluigi Buffon, and I feel sad when he leave in 2018 though he comeback to Juventus last year, but I still feel a bit disheartened when he leave Juventus for PSG. This year we got a new head coach which is Pirlo that I think for anybody who like football will surely know him. Based on last two games, the game play for me is much better than last year under Sarri. Though I think against Roma we should do better in the second goal that we conceded. Hope this year we'll get a chance to win Champions League. It's a long time since we last win it.

Kill Joy - October 2, 2020, 10:44 am

Contest is now closed. Thanks to all who entered. Winner is Skisuit and will be contacted in about 8 hours to collect the prize.