SIM-3205632 - September 26, 2020, 12:42 am

For me it's the "I'm going to start training soon I'll be doing leg and stomach excercises to lose weight there" And then they try to argue with me about it like I don't know what I'm talking about even though I lost 230 pounds and became huge.

It's one of my biggest triggers. When someone tries to argue with you even though you obviously know WAY more than them about the subject.

SIM-3257834 - September 26, 2020, 12:50 am

Me: I'm going to the store

Person: Okay

Me: driving down the road just vibing, only 3 minutes out. The phone rings, it's person

Person: Where did you go? Why did you leave? You should have told me!

How about you fucking pay attention and got off Facebook.

Free Kurdistan - September 26, 2020, 1:08 am

Probably when I get 'steroid' comments / jokes made about me once every couple weeks. Like bruh, I know you work hard and you're here for a change but don't put your struggles and shit on me.

Tro yeh - September 26, 2020, 1:53 am

If i was in your place and i knew more stuff than the person arguing with me, i would just shut up and laugh from inside on that person, and i will still wait him to do the thing in his style and see results.

Being experienced doesn't mean you should argue with stupid people, sometimes you just gotta step back and let them do their own thing.

And the funniest situation is when they do something wrong and come back to you for your expertise. Imagine how funny that will be. ???

Trust me. I have the biggest arms in the gym even bigger than some roidheads there and they get so butthurt for no reason. Like It's out of their reach in the first place. It's 85% genetics.

Skisuit - September 26, 2020, 2:18 am

I don't get triggered easily based on what people says, but one action that always made me mad is when people eat/chew very loudly. It just sounds so damned gross?

High Council - September 26, 2020, 2:19 am false advertising shit like:

"hack any account in minutes"

when in reality 99.99% of accounts won't be hacked in minutes.

I've complained about those things sooo many times haha. So aids to see "Hack the account in seconds" which is basically true because its a cracker and if you have the password you'll be in it in seconds but it never works like that.

Starts off with: "No offence Mate," & then says something offensive.

Smexy - September 26, 2020, 2:35 am

"I hope u get cancer" is a big sucker punch getter from me.

Bacardi Cola Lime - September 26, 2020, 2:39 am

It pisses me off when someone keeps saying the same thing on repeat. It's worse when they know only a certain lyric of a song and they keep singing only that.

When dumb people argue with me

Eagle 95 - September 26, 2020, 3:25 am

When people smack their doors into your car in a parking lot. Just open it slowly all the way and you can touch the other car with your door for maximum reach - no damage to your car nor to others BUT NO. IT TAKES 4 MORE SECONDS TO DO THAT THAN TO SLAM IT.

Morons.

Yanix - September 26, 2020, 3:43 am

For me I am pissed when people tell that they know a thing but deep inside they really don't know and they refused to asked questions even they were lost.

Pretentious people that they seems hard to accept that they didn't know a thing.

For me it is better to ask whenever you really didn't know a thing or whatever it is.

LoremIpsum - September 26, 2020, 6:35 am

Gossip. Just the average gossip pisses me off.

Why? Because I feel like their lives are so boring or non-important that all they can talk about is the life of someone else.

"Did you see what was wearing" or "I heard he" or "Wow, did she said that?". Those small things make my heart beat increase way more than it should.

What I like to think;

Focus on you, until the focus is on you. Or address the issue with the person himself. If it bothers you that much.

Sugawara - September 26, 2020, 6:37 am

I guess, doubting on someone's ability is something which pisses me off. There are a few who believe the others cannot achieve more than them, and maybe term it as "unrealistic goal" just because they couldn't.

That for sure pisses me off.

Disease - September 26, 2020, 6:44 am

"I could care less"... it's couldn't. To say you could care less says you do care. If you couldn't, then you don't. Just a pet peeve of mine, that I hear people say all of the time.

I find it annoying when you go to do something then someone tells you to go do that thing. Then you just dont want to do it because they told you to do it? Its just very annoying imo it almost makes me not want to do it.

Doom - September 26, 2020, 8:21 am

Nothing really annoys me too much as I'm a pretty chill guy but when people eat with their mouths open it can sometimes irritate me.

Zencypher - September 26, 2020, 12:21 pm

It irritates me when i have an opinion and someone says the exact same thing i said.

example:

me: i think that game is underrated.

friend: Oh yeah the game is underrated.

?ystem - September 27, 2020, 6:36 am

What annoys me quite a bit is when people exaggerate and lie about things or situations they are in. There's this one woman where I work where she blows things out of proportion and fibs on details. I honestly don't know why people do this, it's exceedingly irritating.

Prawnster - September 27, 2020, 7:51 am

I hate it when people talk in broken english when you are trying to have proper conversations - I can understand it if its not their first language but when it is and they talk like retards it fucks me off Imao, online though it's fine, just face to face shit.

fernquaker - September 27, 2020, 7:57 am

It pisses me off when people gossip and when they tell other people they gossip too much but they are doing it themselves. It's kind of annoying if you would ask me. People will gather like a group meeting and gossip about what's happening in their lives. I hate it.

I hate lying, (who doesn't) Drama, gossip - Its all trash lol - People who need babysitting for attention, people who throw in slurs and make out theyre "being nice", all those ones that try to put things in your way because they to lazy or scared to do anything..

Its a bit annoying to say the least

Herbert - September 27, 2020, 8:17 am when I do legs and stomach exercises at the gym, there is always this one guy that comes up to everyone thinking he knows everything just because he looks big and buff.

One day I had enough and I told him: "At least I'm trying! you can't blame me for turning my life around, trying to lose weight and living healthier lifestyle." He looked around and realized that he's in the wrong for bullying me and walked away.

I haven't seen him in the gym since that day, though I think I saw him a couple blocks away from my house. His face looked all bruised up.

Zexi - September 27, 2020, 6:47 pm

I hate when people grab the door handle while i am taking a dump in a public restroom without a lock. Holding a door while a idiot on the other side is pulling/pushing while you are taking a shi.t is annoying.

Also shout out to retards shitting in urinals in clubs.

Geass - September 27, 2020, 8:35 pm

I am not easy to get pissed off, mostly when I do a shit and someone repeats or mentioning I get really irritated like for example I lost my keys and couldn't find it, it was in my bag and my bother repeat 3 times because we late to go somewhere :/

Malthemar - September 27, 2020, 9:56 pm

This whole "rip" fad that started a few years ago.

I have a couple of friends who are really into gaming, and when I open a dialogue with them, sometimes they just say "rip" and it ends the conversation.

Enrages me.

Helper - September 27, 2020, 10:02 pm

I really like socializing. Verbal communication/VC is my absolute favorite.

It's a huge let down when someone makes a promise/says they'll be in touch later and don't.

I'd literally rather be stood up for a romantic date than a friend flaking.

Biggest way to lose my friendship is to lead me on or lie to me. I only accept this behaviour from Nach because it seems to be programmed into his DNA.

Vegas - September 27, 2020, 11:00 pm

I help my family and sometimes friends with things they aren't tech-savvy with, which I certainly don't mind doing. What does really annoy me though, is when they are insistent on me just taking care of their immediate task for them rather than bothering to listen for 10 seconds when I explain how or why something is being done.

If you want to force yourself to do things the hard way then I won't stop you but why is it my job to do it FOR you instead of you absorbing a moment of information that you clearly lack? That shit annoys tf out of me.

I genuinely cannot stand this either, that's why normally I'll just park my car away from where everyone else is.

You know, those spaces that no one wants to use. Well my ding-less car loves those spaces lol.
