Thread: Is the cryptocurrency market dead?

ethelooking - September 26, 2020, 10:18 pm

I heard some people tell about this... I have a little scared.

What do you think about this?

Coft - September 26, 2020, 10:55 pm

It's never been so alive as it is now

ETH layer 2

Wrapped Bitcoin

Defi

DEX

NFT

No crypto is not dead at all in fact it is there future everything will go digital soon paper money will be a thing of the past. Crypto will keep growing because more and more people want full control of their finances and not pay huge rates that is where crypto comes in.

Crypto will continue to grow and its definitely not dead

Lol maybe you killed it

Frankly it's not dead

It's still a young industry

You should actually consider getting in now

Crypto has bear and bull markets too. Blockchain and Crypto are about to be something unfathomable within the upcoming future.

The stock market is currently a zombie if you think crypto is dead

I think it has been always alive.

Take a good look at tendencies and prices.

Also look for price variations and users around the world.

Its growing even more every month

That's the money m2 chart for USD.

Check out btc chart <https://coinmarketcap.com/currencies/bitcoin/> and let me know which is better :)

It's obviously not dead, it's only the beginning.

The "press a button and print trillion of dollars" system DOESN'T WORK.

I'd say far from dead. DeFi definitely reignited interested in the sphere. Albeit DeFi has suffered from a strong positive correlation with trad. equity markets, but I think organic interest is mounting nicely.

Although I don't really understand the chart yet, I hope this is just the beginning

The market is alive and kicking. So throw your worries aside.

an organic bond with the stock market could be the key to DeFi's price hike ... thanks for your information
