Thread: Stuck Bitcoin Transaction for 24+ hours

Pink Floyd - October 3, 2020, 3:42 pm

I tried moving all the BTC I had from one of my wallet and selected low fees while sending transaction & now the transaction hasn't confirmed, it's been over 24 hours & no sign.

Can someone tell me what's the possible solution to this?

Probably because you sent it as low fees

It's almost as if low fees are a lower priority for miners to process ????

Yeah, any experience if it will go through later nonetheless or will return back if no one accepts the transaction?

If it's on the block chain then accelerate the transaction are you sendint the lowest fee possible?.

usually takes around 24 - 18 hours if i put the lowest fee

This thing happens all the time. It happens to me before like 48 hours of not being confirmed. I am using Blockchain wallet at that time. But after waiting for long long hours. The money has arrived. No need to worry bro.

Right now there's only around 2,200 unconfirmed transactions so your best bet would be to use the HF BTC Transaction Accelerator and input your TXID there.

While you're at it, you could also throw it into the public BTC transaction accelerator, here:

It also happens to me from time to time did exchange did you use maybe just wait a little longer I am sure it will go through eventually. Luckily the stuff is not controlled by any banks.

Wow, when did HF get an accelerator? Cool!

There is no need to be worried about it. Since you have selected the low fees, It will arrive but late. Once I had to wait for 24+ hours. I tried some accelerations. You check BTC transaction acceleration on google. It may sometimes help you to receive the coins fast.

Bro I had a thousand pound in IOT that anti quantum block chain & I lost it. It never arrived I was very sad.

Starks - October 4, 2020, 1:26 am

I bet it's because you chose low fees. Miners aren't finding it a priority to process the transaction.

HF has something that can help under the Hacker Tools.
