If you have the right budget, a coder can do that for you.

Which will be better

My bro

A freind suggest i have a look and at recent github project as i have heavy interest with tor based.Out of gratitude i had a little time and checked it out honestly not with high expectations but one hand we will have open source and the project is not OAF

Cut to the shit its ptetty interesting if you are into BN's like me and my mates

Check it out if you wanted to you could modify to your needs.

its relatively fresh and again codes all there to go upon.

And no im not the dev of this one

Yea blacknet has these features that will help you, just add in the other addons as its open source.

You will need to code them in, if you are good programmer then you can code them in your self if you dont know how then just message me and i can walk you through how to add things into an open source botnet.

Don't use Blacknet. While secure, the binary doesn't run on every machine as it requires the .net dependencies.
