Hello friends,

ChartClub.net is an exclusive stock trading and cryptocurrency forum. I created this site as a fun way to connect other traders around the world to share news within the industry, share trading signals, and help others achieve a better financial condition through education and support. While registrations are currently open, this community will eventually be restricted to invites-only by registered members.

Created a account, you should allow usernames such as Ivan+, with +, and improve a bit more the dark theme, during the day its hard for me to see...

In general looks good, will be checking your website time to time.
