Thread: Who is a bigger legend? Edward Snowden or Ross Ulbricht

Sir Bitcoin - October 29, 2020, 1:43 pm

Totally different people. Totally different reasons for why they are great.

But what do they mean to you?

For me, Ross Ulbricht is the biggest legend to have ever been on the internet.

But for all you nerds I know what Edward Snowden is too. Just like to know your thoughts?

Do you think they will ever get pardoned?

How has no one replied to this? Are you all gay gamer kids LOL. WHERE'S THE INTERESTING NERDS WHO KNOW WHAT'S UP?

2 heroes, and anyone knows, even with a closed mind. Open the thread noobs, let's talk. Ed or Ross. :}

I have never met these people personally; I only know them from the media, and the Internet. Therefore, I have no opinion on them (because I literally can't have an opinion on them; I've never met them before).

For all I care, they could die of heart failure or drown in a whirlpool or something @Variable Identity probably would vote for himself.

Both are, in some way, just like you said. But the biggest of all is Julian Assange.

Oh yeah I should've mentioned him in thread too, but they were on my mind.

Yes yes and your opinion on Ross? I think people don't realise here because they are all skiddies

Do you even know what a "skid" is?

You are patronising towards others while claiming to have 50M in BTC without a single clue on how to invest, kiddo...

That been said. This thread should be in the philosophy subform, I think.

They are both cowards, as they blew the whistles and vanished. David Icke on the other hand stays where he is... providing information and knowledge with books, interviews and backed up research.

Ignore the little whistle blowers and focus on those who provide value for real, longterm and back it up with stories and a firm hand. Not just snitching upon the CIA and moving to another country to save his own life. What about that, kid?

No opinion on ross. Don't ask me about him

@Sir Bitcoin

How does knowing story of one and not the other makes him/her skid? How old are you, 12?

no they will never get pardoned and no I don't Ross Ulbricht. edward snowden did good deeds and I think what he did isn't illegal. He released info about the U.S spying on it's own citizens which means the U.S government was doing this illegally behind our backs.

Ross Ulbricht created the silk road which is a black market. What he done was very illegal and is considered a criminal in my books and is unethical. He's a horrible person.
