Forget about your trip to London. Why is your username so black and sparkly like that? Are you an attention-seeking narcissist or some shit?

Shut the fk up. You are just seeking peoples' approval and emotionless admiration from an Internet forum, as you are a social media narcissist. I hate the way human beings have become. I hate it.

I heard London is pretty disappointing from a lot of people who went there.
But it might be different for you man, have fun!

Velma - October 30, 2020, 7:30 pm

In all honesty I think you are coming at the wrong time bro, The UK might be going into a national Lockdown again so it will be boring for you.

I don't mind staying a bit longer in a nice looking air BnB :)

Try not to get stabbed or acid thrown at you and you'll be fine. Enjoy your trip!

iRyanOG - October 30, 2020, 8:15 pm

I've been to London but it was a few years ago, so I don't know how it is currently but I loved it there. It was a amazing experience and time I had there. Have fun and make it the best you can bro. I envy you being able to head there. I will go back someday in the near future.

I clicked on this thread because I was going to post the exact same thing. I wouldn't want to travel anywhere out of country right now.

Also, I know that acid attacks have happened the most in London, but globally the majority of acid attack victims are still female. Which is fucking sad and pathetic for men to have to exert control or revenge like a coward.

Have a safe journey.

Hope you don't end up in a room. And get to visit the place properly.

London is a good place.

I've heard bad things about the streets of London at night. Lots of dangerous people about. Be very careful!

I was wondering how was London right now because the last time I heard from my nephew they were having the 2nd wave of Covid thing and since then I heard nothing from her. Hoping everything is good and back to normal in London.
