Thread: Defence Regarding Multiple Scam Reports.

SIM-4845328 - November 6, 2020, 9:19 pm

Heres my explanation regarding the scam reports that have been started on me, or will be started.

Just want to clarify a thing or two first, before starting to explain myself.

Just because I made a deal with someone, it doesnt mean its ascam just because a user decides to make a thread saying I scammed him, or a contract can be disputed, neither makes something a scam.

I most definitely agree that I did some scams and I am not proud of it, however I aknowledge that I did it, and I take the fully responsibility for it.

So please, have this in mind, when reading the thread.

A fuck ton of times we have seen people exit scamming and then the money would never be returned, and the users would keep on going creating new accounts.

Well, this is not the situation.

I paid one user $50 so far.

We have had an agreement, that was $100 for a simple bot, that I would resell for another user.

I reached out for this user, and we made an agreement of a $100 for a script that would login into a website with user credentials and check the subscription of the user.

However. At first, the program was not working, then it had multiple issues, and it was made in poor Browser Automation Studio.

Anyone watching 5 minutes of youtube, would be able to the exactly same thing.

Anyways, I did not include in the contract that it would be request-based and had to be made in Python, or anything else than Browser Automation Studio, so there wasnt really much to do about it, and I had to take the responsibility for it.

I ended up sending the user his first $50 and later on the rest $50.

Therefore, that one is closed right there.

In less than 35 days, I managed to obtain almost 300 reputation and nearly 30 done contract. Also, I managed to gain trust of some high/reputed users of this forum, and be a part of two groups of the HF community.

I want to make clear, that I did not gain reputation, contract, group statuses, or anything else, in order to scam anyone.

It was never a plan of mine, and I would never had thought, I would have to do what I did.

First of all.

Ive been a part of something else than HF for quite a while.

On this other community I am not comfortable mentioning here, not due to the HF ruleset about not mentioning other communities, but due to the actual community and the users of it.

Anyways,at this community I would offer a few services, carry them out, complete them, without any issues.

Lets be straight up honest, and say that most of the users of Hackforums, have done, will do, or intend to do something thats not legal.

Well, so did I.

A user of another community, reached out for me, and decided to blackmail me of a greater amount of money, that I did not have in my savings.

If I didnt transfer the money, I would basically have some very confidential informations about my history on the internet, and other things leaked.

I did not wish to experience that, as it could cause some major troubles to me.

Obviously, Im not a hitman or something insanely else on the darkweb communities.
But I did offer a few services.

Well.

When I was blackmailed I really saw no other choice, than making a ton of a money a lot faster than I really could.

At the same time, I didnt want to scam anyone, as it is not the way I work, do business or would ever like to do business.

So I decided, the smart play would be to take in a bunch of tasks, require 50% paid upfront, and negotiate long deadlines.

However, this sadly didnt end out as I had hoped for.

When developing websites, or offering a service, you can either run into issues with the code you are working with, or have any of your methods for a service patched.

Both things happened to me, and to be honest, I do have a lot of contract going on.

But I did also do a lot of work here in less than 40 days, and most of it is delivered, with highly satisfied customers.

I did do work for what I believe is a 10 year old user for the amount of $690.

I do not even believe this is the amount of money I owe in scam reports by now, I believe it to be smaller.

If I ever intended or had intentions about scamming people world wide on a Hacking forum, I can guarantee that I would proxies entering the forum, do it from a virtual box, and most definitely NOT bond with people, or actually tell people things about my real life.

I am truly sorry for my doings, and what I had to do, its not something I am proud of never will be. But there is sadly nothing to do about it, except from earning money over the next few days, and paying back the users that were affected slowly.

I do not expect anyone to actually believe what I am saying here, or to have any feeling with me about the situation, as it is my own fault and a risk you might be facing, doing this line of work.

However, I am not looking to scam anyone, and I will pay everyone back, as quick as possible. Also the 2 deals that has not been on a contract, that I could totally deny if thats what I would.

Once again, I am truly sorry.

As long as my HF accounts remain alive, and is not closed, I will keep being in touch with the individuals that were affected by these scams, that I tried to make a loan without consent in the long term.

I deleted my discord, as I werent able to handle the stress of people messaging me regarding the situation.

I believe the number to be under $700.

So lets not make a big deal out of this, I would definitely understand the scam reports opened, or that will be opened, and I will slowly solve them one by one.

Sorry for the bad grammar and the bad English.

You should like a compulsive liar. Why did you ask admins and staff to close your account. Now you realized you got caught on trying to exit scam. You now admit you were scamming people and then tell a lie about a story that you want to fool people to believe you. That's why you created this thread to try and convince members scammed and staff that oh you didn't scam you just had a lot of things on your hand and needed time.

I doubt someone blackmailed you. I think all that story talk is all made up to save face and open your account stays the same and you get to continue scamming people.

Bro shut the fuck up lol

You scammed for $50 because someone was blackmailing you? You literally could have just asked anyone in Dreamers for $50 and we would have sent it to you if that was the case.

You already requested that your account be closed, so I hope it is.

Even if it is he always comes back with new fake accounts.

I do not have anything against you for that opinion.

I asked for account closure in the beginning correctly. I was extremely ashamed and I still am.

This is literally nothing to do with me hoping not to have the account closed. I couldn't care less. But it would be easier to talk to the affected once's and solve the problems with an open account. However, as my signature clearly says I do not any deals.

Those accounts aren't him. SIM- accounts are accounts on HF that just have their identities hidden, it's an option in your settings to just turn your name into "SIM-(user id)"

No I did not scam for $50.

The amount is bigger than that, read the thread properly and then come back with a reply that at least makes sense to what I wrote.

It's totally fine by me if the account is closed. If it wasn't I would have edited the closure thread, text and title, before closing the thread.

why would there be such a option? does the account have to be upgraded?

No it would not.

It's basically in order not to have your alias here, attached to any other accounts of yours on other places.
