This app looks better than the app I'm currently using, really like the multiple tabs/folders to save different images, I hope you can release an iOS version soon. I'll definitely buy this.

Our app is based on ChickenCam just like the other Snapchat Live Snaps app on the market. It's an advanced and 100% better version and more features than the original ChickenCam on Github. Here is an example photo of the open-source ChickemCam vs our Mr. Chicken Live Snaps app

Just purchased a slot.

The versatility on this app is amazing. There are different sections for you to organize your pics, as I have a huge problem in finding a solution to this when it comes to sending out live pictures and seeing what I have already sent or not.

The app is quick and responsive, even on my shitty android device. The scripts adds another layer to easing the work flow for giving potential customers rates or whatever you need to do!

Automatically or with ease. So that one does not need to do it manually. I know there are some apps out there available but eventually none of them works anymore.

This is kinda hard to do without jailbreaking your iPhone. Snapchat have increased their security. If we see that there are tons of people looking for this kind of app/features, we might make a separate app for it.

Hey there, this looks like a very promising tool and I will be purchasing later today... I just have one question. I've used spiral's app in the past and when I post things on the snap accounts story, it says "From Camera" which isn't what an actual live snap says. Does this app do this or will it truly appear like a live snap? Thanks!

It is far different and superior to Spiral. We have a separate tab where you can post your Story without "From Camera" & "From". You also don't need to do the memory method as other apps do. So yes, our app will truly appear like a live snap.
