Thread: Looking to Invest in Business Partner

unkn - November 19, 2020, 7:21 pm

I work full time and have been thinking about trying one of these methods.

I'm 18 and work 6 days a week, grinding for well above what any average 18 year old makes (I say that in the most humble way possible because I'm extremely grateful for my situation)

But the point is, I'm looking for a business partner that wants to start one of these methods or knows a method of their own, being monetizing something or investing in another thing. I have the means to invest or purchase any of these methods just not a lot of time because of the schedule I work and my life outside of work (girlfriend), only getting one day a week off I usually don't have time for anything else but that.

If you have been wanting to start a business venture like the ones on here I would love to partner up with you and provide the investments needed to start producing passive income.

Leave a reply or DM me if interested, I know my account doesn't seem that reputable because I don't post much but I look around and read here often and want to start something up.

Take a look at my Instagram business creation service:

I'll be able to set-up a profitable Instagram business for you that won't take too much maintenance once taken over, you'll be investing in the money for me to do the hard-part: set it up, grow it and then optimise it for monetization.
