Thread: Set Me Up a Beautiful WooCommerce Website

RichLister - November 25, 2020, 2:33 am

I am needing a WooCommerce theme setup for me as I am unable to design for the life of me. This is for tech items.

The general "feel" I am trying to go for is the Harvey Norman, JB Hi-Fi, & PB Tech web design. I am not interested in bootstrap themes.

I want something that feels like an actual commerce website with multiple categories available. Think phones, laptops, kitchen items.

I won't be paying a lot for this but pay can be negotiated. I just need the theme configured for me to export and import into my WP instance.

Hey!

I'm a web developer by profession. I'd love to build this for you. Feel free to check out my website at <http://youngseebi.com>.

If you have a fair budget, please feel free to send me a figure and I'll let you know what's possible.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

I've created WooCommerce websites before, also do let me know what kind of budget you have for this.

I'm still needing someone to do this. This isn't a $500 USD job as some people have tried to quote me.

In case I wasn't clear in my OP, I need two pages done in WP. The front page and the product page designed. Try make the front page filled in with categories, products on display, etc etc. Everything else is fine.

I have an example you can copy off. Just try match it to my colour scheme. Choose whatever theme you feel is fitting. Then we can export the WP instance and I can then deploy it onto my own instance.

The price needs to be proportionate to the work. Two pages. Drag and drop some modules. That's all I specifically require. I can do the rest.

Cheers

Two pages, basic them setup, dragging some modules. What part of that is a $150 job?

Many of people throwing offers at you will try milking you. However, you aren't specifying your budget and are undervaluing work done by someone you'd potentially hire.

As I'm seeing this - You want website done for as cheap as possible. "just two pages" "just drag some modules" "just this, just that".

If it were that easy, you'd do it.

To save time for both you and people approaching you, specify your budget and theme you are using (if you've decided on one).

It's not a custom coding job. Just choose any theme you like. I have a dynamic budget

I'll be happy to discuss that in PMs.
