lol no. it's a bot that adds it to your cart and checks out when they drop new consoles.

Can you do this for UK shops selling the xbox?

Hexa - November 27, 2020, 11:24 pm

Is this locked to your account?

Any vouchers out there? Seems legit just would like some feedback from other users.

anatho - November 28, 2020, 4:16 pm

so how does this work with e.g. PS5? It is out already. So I can set a price and when price drops to the set one it adds to cart and informs me?

This bot will not work against a high speed bot like I use. I doubt it even works tbh. Websites update EVERYDAY and the bot must be updated aswell everyday. The last drop for Walmart for Xbox/ps5 was so hard to use a bot on you had to go manual.

I just received a vouch copy, this bot is made in JS and runs from a google chrome extension unlike other selenium based bots. If you run this bot for a few days you might be able to get a ps5 or xbox series x, it refreshes the page until it becomes available. It doesn't use an api or make any http requests but for only $10 you cant really complain.

An add to cart bot is a free resource, bout time it's added to the cart the other bots check out and then the item is sold out again.

Sorry OP not sales trashing just trying to save you some trouble when a kid buys this and don't get what he wants cause the item says sold out.

I thought it was $10 but when I went to the site it said $70? Am I not looking in the right place?

best buy has phone verification now, so may not work as good as it used to.
