May I ask where you are downloading the file from?

website called web archive

About 12-15 years ago I used this program on Windows 98 in a network of PCs and I was able to see the conversation in Yahoo Messenger of every user from the network. This software program transformed my PC in a kind of server and the internet traffic of all the PCs from the network went through my PC so I was able to see what is doing everyone from the network :-)

It was fun but.... later I realized that I'm wasting my time with it because I don't earn anything doing this.

So you're using web archive to download a file? That wouldn't work mate.

Try looking elsewhere.

I'd say check YouTube for tutorials and downloads, or an official website of course.
