That really depends on what you're going for. Ease of use? Probably just Windows 10 if it's a custom built desktop.

However, if you give a shit about security at all, probably some type of custom linux distro like Qubes or Tails.

Hell you could even put Mac OS on it, although not sure why you would.

That's not necessarily a bad thing lol.

Fun fact: There's a speed camera lottery in Stockholm, Sweden where drivers who drive at or under the speed limit are entered to win money.

The prize fund comes from the fines paid by people who were speeding.

Those folks are thinking ahead.

I just figured the reason US & UK would never do this is they like getting the money from the tickets to fund shit. They would hate to give it back to regular people.

Yeah more than likely. The amount of money they make is stupid. There was a speed trap where I used to live that went from 60 mph to 40 mph, to 50 mph, to 40 mph, back to 60 mph within 10 miles. I asked a police officer what was up with that and he said it's the only way the city can make money. That's literally, "highway robbery" if you ask me.

Chiefs look mostly reliant on two players. Their defense overrated. They're beatable. Saints look good too true. Seahawks trash IMO.

(Dec 15, 2020 05:44 AM)A + Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah it's sneaky stuff, you have to be disciplined. Online gambling is worse, because usually if you put in over a certain amount of money you'll lose it. Texas Hold Em and Craps are two of the only games I'll play. Oh and the stock market lol.

Online is predatory. They can rig algorithms in so many ways man. They can literally design it in a way that amplifies stress and anger levels which means you're more likely to go bigger. Any online casino I'd avoid like crazy. Poker is just about safe. Yeah stock market at least is partially skill.
