You're offered to join either, pick one and explain why.

Freemason because Illuminati is overhyped

These two really don't have much to do with each other tbh.

I'd choose the freemasons. I've actually been considering joining up at the local lodge we've got.

MavenGradle - December 13, 2020, 4:36 pm

Neither since they offer no value to my personal needs, wants or goals in life.

swirlee - December 13, 2020, 7:09 pm can someone actually explain briefly the differences between the two?

all the intel I got about them is conspiracy theories ahaha

Local lodge member checking in. Who's turn is it to scrub the holly grail with a toothbrush?

I do not understand your question. Many people are so naive and just think so carelessly. Many people spread incorrect information or don't know what they are talking about. Illuminati are NEVER on TV, they work in secret, they control several governments and all TV programs. Freemasons are, simply put, puppets of the Illuminati.

There are simply countless freemasons in our history: George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, John Hancock, Charles Darwin, Mozart, Churchill, Stalin, Marx, Nietzsche, Goethe, Freud,..... former Apollo astronauts were high degree freemasons. It is the religious and political leaders, judges, businessmen and bankers, teachers, publishers and entertainers who INFLUENCE society.

Anyone who is willing to sell their soul to the satan and make a pact with him can become a Freemason.

You cannot "join" the Illuminati family. One is "born" into them, incarnated into them.

I'd avoid joining either groups. The less known I am, especially to popular organizations, the better off I'll be. I'd rather be considered an average citizen, one that serves no beneficial purpose to fulfill any agendas.
