Thread: Can someone answer few questions about GTA 5 modding?

Cavalier - December 13, 2020, 9:06 pm

Hey,

I'm looking to use some GTA V mods, but do not want to risk getting ratted / virus.

Could someone help me out and answer few questions?

1. Is there anyway to tell if a mod is safe / unsafe? Doesn't seem like I can go thru the code of any of the mods, so how do I tell?

2. How common are GTA V Mod's having viruses?

3. What are the best trusted sites for modding?

If anyone has a ton of experience with this, and would wanna guide me through it, I can pay you. Let me know.

Paid cheats get detected as often as free cheats.

Just use kiddions modest menu from unknowncheats.

Never got a ban with it except if i harrassed other players with it.

I think i used rig casino ez 200 mil. Didnt get banned, and its been 6 months.

GI with it bro!

I can't speak on the paid cheats getting detected as often as the free cheats.

I use disturbed menu and I've never been banned, however I play it safe I usually just give myself the amount of money I need to buy what I want or maybe a little extra, and thats what I recommend that I show my mods too anyway. As far as leveling goes I usually just give myself a reasonable level, I don't even know the max but I just go with how long the games been out I guess. When I first got GTA on PC which was like last yr I just leveled my account up to about 150 I'd say, I think thats where the max stuff unlocks and I just leveled legit from there.

Kiddion's is the best free menu you ca

N try been using it since it's release never got banned. Distrubed is good too but I got banned with it once when it's name is Requiem.

There usedto be great menus for GTA like Epsilon and infamous which are taken down by Rockstar. Also don't try to show off with any menu as it may lead to a ban and never use a menu when an update arrives and you are sure that it is not detected.
