

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Affiliate marketing from outside the USA

The Pact - December 23, 2020, 9:39 am

Is this hard because you're blogging about topics aimed towards the biggest market- the USA- but you often wouldn't have the same shops and brands and things around you that are in the USA?

chevytt - January 14, 2021, 8:25 am

Base on the little knowledge I know about affiliate it all comes down to micro niche, dedicating to one specific niche & stick my advice is use google trends to find what people are searching for find a niche there & use pinterest to grow an audience around that niche then profits will start coming in...

siddy357 - January 14, 2021, 6:24 pm

(Dec 23, 2020 10:39 AM)The Pact Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Is this hard because you're blogging about topics aimed towards the biggest market- the USA- but you often wouldn't have the same shops and brands and things around you that are in the USA?

no not as far as your audience are form the USA you are good to go.

guardian - January 17, 2021, 1:52 am

I don't see why it would be hard, as long as your English is good enough and you have the right audience.