Thread: Cashapp now requires verification?

ShockStatik - December 31, 2020, 4:40 pm

Been e-whoring for almost a year and made some great money. Started off with Venmo but it got locked with $700 so I switched to Cashapp which was doing well. Took a break for a few months and I started back up last month but my cashapp started warning people "scam likely" when attempting to send me money. I made a new cashapp but now its asking for verification (i verified with license already, and now have access to BTC) everytime I try to send bitcoin to my wallet or recieve any money.. I've tried re-making the account with different numbers but still the same thing, get verified for BTC, and I can get 1 payment and it locks and asks for verification w/ bank account. Anyone else experiencing this? Rather not put my bank account on it.

This seems like it's new because when i first started using cashapp, I made over $10k on cashapp and it never asked me to verify after I verified for BTC, now I can't even do more than 1 payment without it asking, and it won't let me recieve anything are you using your real details to verify?

I always used my real drivers license because I figured I had no choice. After all they don't know what the money is for?

Should I be buying fake verified cashapps or..

Well whoever tries to contact cashapp for a refund can have fun explaining why they randomly sent $25, before I explain how they're trying to participate in prostitution. Good luck with that

Prostitution? Unless you don't do meetup scams it's only identity theft and tax fraud. You won't go to jail because of this lmao
