I feel like I know this website/logo maker already and have used this glitch before. I'll take a vouch copy and have a look :)

Wespa - January 6, 2021, 1:56 pm

Im very interested, if you deem me reputable enough ill take a vouch copy and report on the results.

--

Edit:

OP Has given me a vouch copy of the method.

This has to be one of the easiest methods I have read in a while, it works flawlessly. There is no need to download any stupid programs or know anything about websites. The guide is extremely simple to follow and the results are great. I managed to make myself a logo in 30 seconds and here it is.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

The method works very well.

The pricing of the method is fair as well because you will get your money back depending on how you will use these skills.

Ill take a vouch copy for this. Seems interesting.

S????i - January 6, 2021, 4:43 pm

Hey folks, I started 3 contracts with the first 3 of you who ask for a vouch copy. Send me a pm once you have accepted it. Thanks.

This method isn't worth $40.

In my opinion, this isn't worth $5 either. It simply involves clicking a couple of buttons on a specific website. It works, sure, but looks like OP is just looking to make a quick buck. I created a cool logo and I'm sure you can too - not to mention it takes only a couple of minutes to create your own - although these sort of methods have been offered on HF for years, free of charge. I wouldn't really go as far as calling it an "exploit", just the owner of the website forgetting to add a watermark somewhere.

Not really going to vouch for this but it's legit. Best of luck OP.

Here is an honest review:

This isn't an exploit. It's a flaw in a big website, not an exploit. The method is easy, it's nice and it works. I can see the potential and I can see how one can make a profit from it. Take for example by reselling these logos.

Here is where it sucks: Due to it being "Exploited" you do not get any licensing or copyright documents. Therefore technically it's illegal to use these logos anywhere.

Is it worth $40? Meh, this feels more like a $25 product, because I am pretty sure that someone is going to be a rat and report this flaw to the website owners.

If you wanna make a quick buck on Fiverr by reselling logo's, this method is for you :)

best of luck with sales OP.

Thank you for your honest review.

Like I said in our chat, I respect how you are not agreeing with the price of this ebook. I might consider and adjust the price accordingly. You are correct, it simply involves clicking a couple of buttons to create an unwatermark version of the logo. I'm not looking for a quick buck. If I am looking for it, I would be selling this for a dollar. I don't sell it at that price because I know someone can benefit from the method as a whole and not just judging it based on just clicking several buttons. If I have seen this available for free in HF, I wouldn't be selling it here.

The important thing about this method is, it is advertising what is being advertised.

Thanks for your honest feedback and giving the upside and the downside of this method. In my opinion, if you are an anonymous small time logo seller, there won't be a problem selling these logos to people. You are correct, this can be patched any time soon if this guide is leaked.

Is this using inspect element?

Or herhaps using httrack to download the entire results page including your logo?

No, nothing complicated compared to what you are asking.

It will reveal the method if I tell you which website I am using.

Based on gigabytes review seem like this is just the dev's small mistake to not include watermark on the trial version of the logo huh?

Like the site have a trial version on creating your logo but it will be watermarked but he or she just forgotten to include that.

Therefore you can create any premium stuff without having it watermarked?

Its like example of Camtasia Screen Recorder forgotten to watermark your recording then you can basically use that recorder software for free where they actually need you to pay to remove watermark.

There is no trial version of the paid logo website. When you create a logo, it asks you to checkout for a price. The method bypass that point. That's how you take advantage of thr website.
