

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: RAT with hidden TeamViewer/TeamViewer plugin.

bombastic509 - January 10, 2021, 3:42 pm

Hello everyone,

A long time ago, I saw an article on webroot antivirus website about a RAT which had tons of features including a TeamViewer extension which allowed connection to the remote computer using TeamViewer without the remote user having to download or notice the TeamViewer notification.

Here's the article's link:

<https://www.webroot.com/blog/2013/04/17/a-peek-inside-a-cracked-commercially-available-rat-remote-access-tool/>

The RAT's name mentioned in the article is blurred out so I wasn't able to identify it but it's logo is a pink spiral shade.

Using TeamViewer can be very useful for many reasons for example being able to connect to the remote computer without needing to port forward which means that you can control the remote PC using your phone. as well as being able to black out the remote computer's screen and the ability to capture its speakers output.

So if anyone has any ideas about that it would be highly appreciated.

0Tolerance - January 10, 2021, 6:10 pm

Arcom Rat, i doubt that HTV works tho