As a rule, the Trojan needs elevated access to function properly (some of them use their own code that allows for escalating privileges). Unfortunately, I don't know about the program you mentioned, but it's safe to assume that you need root.

It's nice that you sent it. I honestly admit that I haven't met this RAT before. I will try to test it thoroughly.

yeah just test it and you will see , i have been far away from ethical hacking since 2017 and now im in because i have some target i need to go throw his phone to check some details. technologies wont stop progress so i have 4 years since 2017 to check what did i miss

used droid back in days

Wasn't good.

I guess I remember it right you need to have a rooted phone in order to use all functions.

If it updated then things may be different but back when I used this it was working well on rooted devices
