Thread: \(US/CA\) LIFETIME - Best Buy Autobuy Bot Useful for Scalping

GMEHodlr - January 29, 2021, 9:14 pm

Reduced price!

I paid my comp sci student friend to create a bot to snag a RTX 3080, but it can be used to purchase anything on Best Buy. The bot is currently supported in the US and Canada. I haven't personally tested Canada, so let me know if there are any issues. Best Buy generally doesn't provide accurate restocking alerts, but the program is not resource intensive and I personally always leave it on.

Features ---

- Logs in, adds to cart, and completes order all automatically
- Can run multiple tasks for multiple products at the same time
- Set any page refresh rate
- Doesn't require administrator access, and you can check your network to verify it isn't sending your info to anyone else
- Can use autofill data from Chrome, but is a bit clunky (my friend is working on better consistency)
- Lifetime access, updates, and support (or until Best Buy implements better prevention methods)

Includes guide, but setup is very straightforward. If you have any issues PM me, or better yet post a reply in this thread in case other users experience the same problem.

Offering 3 discounted vouch copies at 50% off ($25), and 3 free vouch copies for established sellers on this forum.

Price ---

(reducing price from lack of interest and because my friend is a lazy fuck that takes forever to update)

Payment methods ---

Paypal, Cashapp, Venmo, BTC, ETH, and many other altcoins.

Never got a PM, so I sent you one
Got a vouch copy.

Initial impressions:

Bot is pretty straightforward to use. Comes with pretty clear instructions. I asked OP some questions relating to some specific features, so can't really blame that stuff for not being in the instructions.

I have my address and payment info saved on the BB website. Entered the only the CVV of my card into the bot, because sometimes BB will ask for that to verify.

Placed a test order with an HDMI cable. Bot logged me in, went to the product page, added to cart, checked out, entered the CVV I gave it, and purchased. Everything worked fine.

Will now leave it running and see if I can snag a GPU.

Suggestions:

- Only options for a task are start and delete - Add an "edit" button, that way if I want to switch products, I can just edit the link instead of creating a whole new task
- Allow the bot to select a shipping/pickup method. I'm unsure if I manage to get a GPU if the option will be ship to me or to store, so it'd be nice to be able to select that.

Overall happy so far. Will update if/when I'm able to get a GPU.

much more demand than supply

rtx 30 series, ps5s, xbox x, etc are all marked up because retail sells out of them instantly

It's extremely hard to get a lot of tech stuff right now - GPUs, CPUs, consoles, etc. This bot will refresh the product page every "x" seconds that you set and if it comes in stock, it will buy it. This is compared to manually refreshing several product pages yourself, and hoping that you're fast enough if one comes in stock.

After a couple days, have you been able to get a 3080?

Best Buy doesn't drop that often. They dropped on Tuesday and I did not get one. I had 4 tasks running, one of them never went in stock and the other 3 did.

Would be interested in a vouch copy. I have written a bot in python that handles wait listing for MicroCenter, but would like to increase my chances with BB as well. Will leave detailed review.

Hi there. I would be interested in any copy at any price to review or purchase. Would love to get my hands on this and test it out.

Thanks,

C

pm me am interested!!!!!!!

knockout350 - June 1, 2021, 2:00 pm

i am interested but a little hesitant because no one seems to be able to say if it has worked for them or not and as i have tracked all of best buys GPU drops there have been several since this thread launched 4 months ago. if it works and BBY hasnt implemented anything to block it then its well worth the money but as i said im hesitant to pay anything without seeing results
