4dik - January 30, 2021, 2:26 pm

Whats up guys! I currently challenged myself to make $100k In year from just side hustles (legally)!

Current Amount Made: $8.2k
Amount Still Needed: $91,800

I will not be updating the thread till March 2nd due family emergency

Im Looking for some ideas that may work :P

Side Hustles Thinking About Doing:

DoorDash
Making A YouTube Channel
Learning Drop Shipping
Car Detailing (Done this in past! Im a Car Detailer haha)

Current Side Hustles:

Stocks
Renting my car out on Turo (Might be purchasing a Maserati or Jeep to rent out)
Charging Lime Scooters

BaldCunt - January 30, 2021, 2:32 pm

I'm currently doing bets, I have a 1k challenge ATM.
Check my thread on Sporting World. <3

Detailing would work if you class it as a side hustle, as in if you don't already do it as a job.

Interested in learning detailing myself if I'm honest, I enjoy cleaning my car and always keep it to a high standard.

Good luck on your journey chief, it'll take a fat minute but crazy if you can pull it off

So I was doing it aa a side hustles and registered a LLC for it, but I only do it on Saturday and Sunday

I learned how to detail from just watching people on youtube like Detail Geek and stuff like him

I detailing cars any good business?? I have a friend that him and his brother owns an actual business and that's what they only do. They detail cars and resell supplies. So, they have a website and they ship items nationwide and to a few other countries.

His brother is a mechanic . They started out in a small facility and grew they made I think $120,000 USD in one year and even 2nd year. The third year they bought a nice industrial complex building and bought some lifts and tools benches. His bro now fixes up any cars does oil changes etc. The last I heard from them they are now making like $20,000,000 a year and like hired 20 employees.

I am like how you doing it? I wanted to get into the business but was like no it looks too saturated. In my area there was no one doing this. You can buy the stuff online. My friend and his bro were the first to do it in my area.

Now there's like 10 other places doing it and some repair shops are doing this. There was a guy that was selling his repair and body shop because he wanted to strictly do detailing and told us there's a lot in that business. I looked into the person and found out he owed like $100,000 to a bank and seem like he wanted to stiff us with the bill of paying back the loan he took out on the business.

So, we never bought it.

So detailing is a lot of money, for my basics detail is $180 which is Vacuuming, whip down the interior and foam bathing the car

I charge $250 for shampooing and hair removal in the interior and waxing.

That's just for a sedan, I charge around double for a SUV and Truck

But if I go over 6 hours for the detail it's an $30 an hour after, this is for when the car is dirty as shit

Long way to go but slowly with your perseverance and hard work you can make it.

Good luck on your side hustling this year...all the best for you.

This is a great goal my man. Wish you the best of luck :)

ZeroOne - January 31, 2021, 5:24 am

I actually love this idea. I don't recall ever thinking of it or considering it but now that I have seen your goal, I'm going to go ahead and set myself a humble goal of making the equivalent of $1,000 USD from side hustles.

Best of luck to you and thank you for the idea.

Wheelie - January 31, 2021, 6:18 am

The Turo gig is a great one but the cons of it like people mistreating the car and potentially wrecking would be some of the reasons I stay away from car renting apps.

I would start a YouTube channel and start a niche that you're passionate about and grow it from scratch. If your account starts to build momentum then you'll be able to monetize it and make some serious cash.

My side hustle was at the beginning of the pandemic I researched ways to combat the virus and facemasks was one of them. I took advantage of the opportunity to start selling them at a large volume. I wanted to make some serious money but at the same time I didn't want to abuse the situation and raise the premium based on supply and demand.

Research research!

Yeah we already had someone trash our car but Turo basically paid for everything but I had to pay a $250 deductible, The youtube im gonna try is compliation videos and see if I can blow it up, but I think dropshipping is my best bet to hit my goal tho

Selling items you don't use online and seasonal jobs can work well. I know one thing you can do to make quick cash during holidays is put up ads to put up decorations for people. This usually is better in higher income areas.

Roof / gutter cleaning is a great way to make cash, people don't really care to clean their gutters but a lot of the times you have to have your own ladder / stuff to clean them out with.

Pressure washing driveways or lawn care are other ways to make some cash but you really have to factor out things with these.

Mowing lawns can be good but I wonder if houses expect you to bring your own equipment, I assume some would since they may be untrusting of you using theirs. Still a good money making method however.

Get into the crypto market and maybe some stocks too. You've got 9 months to hit 98k but it could be done with the right moves!

X-32 - March 10, 2021, 12:26 pm

Everything you listed involves selling your time in exchange for money.
You wont make $100k in a year selling your time, unless you've got an advanced job that requires an advanced degree.
You need money to continue flowing in (on average) while you're asleep/not working.
The only way you can do that is with something you can sell...Preferably online. Products, stocks, etc car detailing is making me good money and will hit my goal if I keep doing it, and im also doing turo which is passive and so is lime, Im getting another car and ill have two cars renting full time on turo, Ill have a tesla and jeep renting out on there, tesla is $90 a day the jeep is $60 a day, the lime scooter I maker about $30 a day

(Mar 10, 2021 01:43 PM)Incog Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Reselling on Ebay is something still worth looking into. I'm not talking about shoes or other clothing, just simple everyday items like TV's or furniture.

I've seen it done before where you can buy a TV for 30-40, clean it up and then resell for 80-100 in some cases. It's a small profit but if you offer only pickup, you can not worry about the shipping or anything. Same with drawers, some simple DIY and you can bump the price up 30-40 no problem.

Smaller income but it stacks up.
I've done this haha

Just got a quick question bout the Car Detailing bro, I have seen lots of car wash places and they dont even have that much customers and I even questioned them, are they even earning enough to pay for the rent of the place and the products they use.

Juoku - March 21, 2021, 11:04 pm

The issue I see with drop shipping is you'll probably have to pay some to make money out of it and that might take you more than a year as well, might be a good idea in the long run but in todays market with so many dropshipping businesses and the fact you want your goal achieved in a year,

I'd pass on that for now, maybe learn it and if you think you can hold a store at minimum costs you could go for it

4dik - March 21, 2021, 11:06 pm

My detailing is ran at my house currently, but it pays for my rent when I do 3 cars (avg. $350 per car). I could get a bigger place for cheaper that has everything I need, Alot of car washes are put in ssuper cheap areas and barely use electricity and water is cheap

Good luck man, hope your side hustle is going well. I also was thinking of looking into dropshipping, had any luck with that?

Lyralei - March 22, 2021, 5:34 am

Always nice to have goals, good luck OP, and don't beat yourself for not getting there in time.

Suggestion - March 22, 2021, 8:57 am

Good luck. I like this mindset.

You have a solid point brother. Cheers for the info.

$350 for detailing??? What are you doing? In my area it's never more than $100 to get your car fully detailed.

4dik - April 6, 2021, 6:34 pm

I have fully rented out my tesla on turo and made about 2.1k in profit! im looking to buy another car to rent out! I have also start my detailing business and made $800 in the first 3 days! I took a month off due to family reasons

How long do you have to charge it for.

C am - April 6, 2021, 9:41 pm

this is an awesome man, I'm actually going to set one for myself after this... I've always been pretty bad about saving money up until this year. and I currently have $3,800 saved up as pf January...

I don't believe 100k is realistic for me to do in a year but I'm going to set one at 50k. I'm not extremely confident in myself to save up that much from side hustles but I am going to give it a shot and I WILL be back to let you know how my progress is going.

Charging Lime scooters? How does that work?

Doesn't sound like it would pay a lot.

My portfolio is already up 180% from this year. It's been great. Best of luck to you as well.

between 4-6 hours a day and I do ten scooters every 6 hours, so I make around $140 a day with them :D

I like your ideas and the ones you are currently doing. I have thought about, or tried most of those. I would suggest finding the ones that are most profitable. You can only do so much in a day. Keep upping your side hustle and make sure you think about the opportunity cost. I like your idea of renting out a Mas on Turo. If you do it right you might be able to get a Mas for free! Best of luck

Amount Still Needed: $97,800

I will not be updating the thread till March 2nd due family emergency

Im Looking for some ideas that may work :P

Side Hustles Thinking About Doing:

DoorDash

Making A YouTube Channel

Learning Drop Shipping

Car Detailing (Done this in past! Im a Car Detailer haha)

Current Side Hustles:

Stocks

Renting my car out on Turo (Might be purchasing a Maserati or Jeep to rent out)

Charging Lime Scooters

Code. Hire some coders.

You seem pretty motivated. I'm gonna start doing doordash soon, my buddy made $1400 in a week a bit ago and I figured it would help me be able to travel and get by.

Yeah Turo is cool though, I want to start renting cars out on it too.

Yeah doordash is amazing tbh! my area you could make around $20-30 easily and hour and yeah turo is pretty nice cause its passive

Do they manage your car somewhere for you or how does the renter obtain the vehicle?

Yeah it's cool just takes quite the investment and risk.. I would only do it with cheaper cars tbh but that's just me, using a Tesla for it is crazy to me lol

So yeah I detail the car, wash the car etc. Once I drop off the car I drop it off a mall near me so no one comes to my house, I meet them there, check their license and they go on their way.

Tesla makes me good money tbh and rents out amazingly, im actually up $3k on my car! I'm actually looking too buy another tesla to rent out another as well

I cahрге about $100 a day, $60 to drop it off to airport near me, and than extras as well. I give unlimited miles so I make no money on that. I also don't car how much miles they put on the car haha

You made $3k more than what the car cost??

That's cool though!

That sounds like a good way to make money, but the initial cost of buying the car (or the risk with a loan) seems really high to try and get into.

I mean, I wouldn't even by myself a Tesla right now.
