Thread: Red Pill or Blue Pill ?

ghostboy - February 7, 2021, 8:43 pm

The google definition for this is :

The terms "red pill" and "blue pill" refer to a choice between revealing an unpleasant or otherwise life-changing truth, represented by the red pill, or remaining in blissful ignorance, represented by the blue pill.

if you had the choice , would you keep a life of comfort and ignorance if you had the money to support it and the ones you love?

I honestly probably would. If I could live on an island somewhere and smoke weed all day with my family.

Stork - February 7, 2021, 8:46 pm

I took that red pill a long time ago there bud.

Yanix - February 7, 2021, 8:49 pm

I think I would go with the red pill. I would very much rather learn more or have some more truth revealed to me than be ignorant.

RTKN - February 11, 2021, 2:52 am

I think I'll take the blue one, truth is sometimes ... well, you don't want to know it.

2xTheTap115 - February 11, 2021, 7:37 am

Well, that's really not an easy question?

It is known that people's desire to "know" is so strong that they would like to know the truth. However, guided by experience, I would prefer my blissful unconsciousness (according to the principle that says "the less you know, the longer you live?").

False King - February 11, 2021, 8:09 am

It depends, would I be the only one who can take the red pill? Imagine a world where you objectively know all truths (there's a difference between KNOWING the truth and THINKING you know the truth). Just imagine a world in which you're the only one who knows the truth about everything. There's nothing you could do about it. You'd have the gift of knowledge, and the curse of being a bystander who can't do anything.

In that hypothetical case, give me the blue pill. Sounds more like a curse than a gift.

Tommie R - February 11, 2021, 8:22 am

I'd take the blue pill any day. It depends on how severely this "truth" would make me suffer.

clicked - February 11, 2021, 8:24 am

Probably red pill. If the truth is severe enough, I'd like to know. Ignorance is bliss and all but I'm not about that.

Megatron - February 11, 2021, 9:35 am

I think I would ultimately take the blue pill. In a way, humans are kinda already doing this. We live in ignorance, not knowing the secrets of the universe or why we exist in the first place. Maybe it is more satisfying just to live in blissful ignorance than hear something that our minds might not be able to handle. I could see the value in learning the truth about certain things, though. There is, however, no going back from the red pill.

Black Whale - February 11, 2021, 10:10 am

Take the red pill, then the white one.

NoneStar - February 11, 2021, 12:40 pm

Well seeing how the red pill was the better option in the long run probably that one TBH

Koyote - February 11, 2021, 1:40 pm

Juoku - March 20, 2021, 1:41 am

The problem with the truth is that if you're not in a position of power there really isn't much you can do about it other than realize you're not that significant, in some cases even that doesn't help, it's nice to know it, I always wanted to know everything but this time I think I'd take that blue pill and enjoy my life with my family staying ignorant

Blue pill. They say ignorance is bliss for a reason. You worry that whatever the red pill reveals you'll be unable to change. Being unable to change it, and suffering through that truth, why would you want that?

Depends on the circumstance. But yeah, I'd do just about anything to live freely on an Island smoking bud with my fam, there's actually places like that though, I'd just worry about hurricanes and shitty storms, especially with my family & children.

But in todays age, if the red pill got me to be half as smart as Elon Musk, then I'd probably go with that so I can actually buy the island, put an mansion on it, and provide an easier living for the coming generations of my family, because that's all I really care about.

Social media websites have always had policy guidelines. If you threaten and abuse people on social media then you MIGHT get banned if ENOUGH people report the violation (like a hell of a lot of people.) He wasn't banned for his conspiracy theories or political views.

for sure, it's almost like a decision made in life

There's a deeper red pill which refers to sexual relations between man and woman. I took that one four years ago. I did what the community recommended: lifting weights, holding frame, and passing shit tests. It worked, I laid the hottest girl I've ever seen, and other girls too.

That experience with women gave me the confidence to jump deeper into business, which I did. Made $30k over several months. Then lost it all by denying the existence of God to a bunch of jihadists. I said money was god, or something like that. They robbed me. That's more of a red pill than I could handle, so a year after that I landed in a psych ward again and again and got fed literal pills.

Overall I'd say the redpill philosophy was worth it. It was great while it lasted.

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Assuming there wasn't a parallel universe, which would you choose?

DeepWeb - April 27, 2022, 3:00 am

Dredd - April 28, 2022, 1:17 pm

I'd take the red pill life's full of shit and I personally would rather face it head on than live in ignorance.

No Bra - April 30, 2022, 8:02 am

Give me the red pill anytime.

Artisan - April 30, 2022, 1:01 pm

I prefer to live with the truth than to not know and live in ignorance. Red pill for me always.
